REICHSTAG PASSES BILL RATIFYING THE TREATY OF PEACE WITH AMERICA

Only Communists Vote Against Measure Ending
State of War With United States; Action Completes Ratification of Pact by Berlin Government.

EFFORT FOR VOTE BY U. S. SENATE OCT. 14

Leaders Negotiating for Agreement on Proposal by Lodge, After Democrats
at Caucus Object to Night Sessions.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Sept. 30.—The Reichstag today passed the bill ratifying the peace treaty with the United States.

The Reichstag devoted less than 10 minutes to the ratification formalities, as all the parties, except the Communists, agreed to dispense with debate. The bill approving the treaty was accepted in all three readings by an overwhelming majority, the Nationalists also voting for its acceptance when Herr Loeb, President of the Reichstag, called for a rising vote.

The passing of the German Reichstag today of the bill ratifying the treaty of peace with the United States completes the legislative process necessary to ratification on the part of Germany. The Reichstag, or upper chamber of the German parliament, ratified the treaty on Sept. 27.

Agreement Likely Today for Vote on Treaty Oct. 14.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Advocates of antimedical beer legislation today temporarily blocked the program of Senate leaders for a final vote Oct. 14 on ratification of the German, Austrian and Hungarian peace treaties, but later withdrew their objections and leaders on both sides said the voting date probably would be fixed later in the day.

Opposition to the treaty plan was based on the report that Senate leaders planned adjournment following action on the treaties and the tax revision bill, without a vote on the antimedical measure.

The dry unexpected intervention came when Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican leader, presented the draft of the treaty voting agreement. In doing so the Massachusetts Senator referred to ratification of the German treaty by the Reichstag of that country and said that it was important for the Senate to act promptly.

Proposal on Reservations.
During the ensuing discussion, Senators Borah and Brandegee, Republican, Connecticut, urged that Senators be required to submit all proposed reservations several days ahead of the final vote. Senator Underwood of Alabama, Democratic leader, said the Democrats had decided against "party action" on the treaty and although there would be no party reservations, most Democrats probably would support reservations.

"That looks as if there might be party action at the end," Senator Borah commented.

Because of the new turn taken in the treaty debate, Republican leaders dropped their plan of holding a session last night, but Senator Lodge estimated that should the agreement be blocked, he would return to the night sessions in an effort to expedite ratification. Under the proposal for a voting date, Senators would be permitted to have the tax revision bill laid aside to debate the treaties.

The only action in the Senate on the treaties yesterday was by Senator Watson, Democrat, of Georgia, who opposed ratification because he said he believed that would drag the United States into the League of Nations and European entanglements. Ever since President Harding's inauguration, Senator Watson declared, the nation has been "drifting irresistibly" into the league.

WAR RECORD OF APPLICANT FOR CITIZENSHIP ACCEPTED IN PLACE OF EXAMINATION

Judge Dyer Says There Can Be No Question of Stephen Kearney's Actions When Naturalized.

NE of 24 former service men, presenting themselves for naturalization before Judge Dyer today, submitted a war record so remarkable that the judge said:

"There is no need of examination of this man. If, without being a citizen, he has served this country so well, there is no question of his actions once he becomes a citizen."

The applicant was Stephen Kearney, born 30 years ago in County Mayo, Ireland, and now employed as a yardman at the monastery of the Passionist Fathers in Normandy. His war record follows:

Enlisted in the 1st Infantry in 1917 and 27 days later embarked with Pershing's original contingent for France, where he served 27 months with the Sixteenth Infantry. He was one of the burial party of Enright, Hays and Gresham, the first three Americans killed in the war, who were members of his outfit. Participated in five major and four minor engagements. At Cantigny was one of five men in his company to survive death or wounding. Gassed twice, shell shocked and wounded by machine gun fire in the Argonne. Participated in the victory parades in Paris and London.

"I am glad you are an Irishman," Judge Dyer also remarked.

NATIONAL GUARD COLONEL, HUNTING BURGLAR, SHOOTS SELF

Fred E. Ellis of McPherson, Kan., Trips Over Live Fire Bullet Through Heart.

McPHERSON, Kan., Sept. 30.—Fred E. Ellis, Colonel of the Fourth Kansas Infantry and a Major during the World War, died early this morning when he fell over a rug in his own dining room while hunting for a burglar, and his own 45 automatic pistol was discharged, the bullet penetrating his heart.

Col. Ellis was awakened about 3 o'clock by a noise downstairs, as of someone trying to open a window. Taking his revolver, he went downstairs, without turning on any lights. A moment later his wife, Mrs. Millie Ellis, heard a pistol shot and rushed downstairs. Her husband lay dying on the dining room floor. He gasped out the story of the accident and in a few minutes later. No inquest is planned.

A son, 13 years old, and a daughter, 15, were sleeping in the house. Col. Ellis was a member of the Grand Council of the Knights Templars and had been in the National Guard since 1898. He was born in Kearney, Neb., in 1880, and came to McPherson in 1902.

LARKIN WILL CONTEST SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Terms of Agreement in Dispute Over $900,000 Estate Will Not Be Made Public, Lawyers Announce

TESTATOR'S MENTAL SOUNDNESS CONCEDED

Litigation Revealed That Larkin Had Lived 30 Years With Woman Whom He Had Not Married.

A settlement of the contest brought by relatives of the late Ell Larkin to break his will, by which he left about $775,000 of his $800,000 estate to educational, religious and charitable objects, was announced today in Circuit Judge Klenz's court by attorneys for the contestants and for the estate.

The terms of the settlement, it was stated by the lawyers, will not be made public. Under the agreement of counsel, in which the mental soundness of Larkin was conceded, the Court declared the document in question to be Larkin's last will, and the estate will be administered in accordance with its provisions.

Defendants in the suit, among the defendants in the will contest suit were the David Ranken Jr. School of Mechanical Trades, to which Larkin willed stock in the National Ammonia Co., valued at about $375,000, and other property which brought the total of the bequest to $775,000; the St. Louis Children's Hospital, to which a bequest of $100,000 was made; Christ Church Cathedral, which received a $100,000 bequest; other religious and charitable organizations which were to receive a total of about $85,000; and a group of relatives to whom a total of $120,000 was willed.

The plaintiffs in the will contest were Bartholomew M. Larkin of Ferguson and Mrs. Annie E. Oliver of Florida, nephew and niece of Larkin, to whom bequests of $1000 and $400 respectively were made. They alleged that Larkin, when he made the will a month before his death, was mentally incapable.

The will provided that any heir contesting the will should be cut off with $100. It is believed that the settlement made today not only guards the two plaintiffs against such loss, but that it materially increases the bequests made to them.

Larkin died April 16, 1920, at the age of 80. He was the founder of the National Ammonia Co. He was known generally as a bachelor. Since the will contest was instituted it has been known that Larkin lived 30 years as the reputed husband of Harriet Belle Thompson, to whom he was never married. They lived at 4030 Olive street, and in later years at 4067 Forest Park boulevard. The woman died two months before Larkin's death. The facts as to their relations came out in depositions in the will case, bearing on the question of Larkin's mental capacity.

Larkin was a brother-in-law of the late William H. Thomson, who was vice president of the Boatmen's Bank and was the uncle of Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins of 20 Lenox place.

Besides the bequest to the Ranken Trades School, Larkin's will made bequests of $10,000 to the Episcopal Church, $10,000 to the Home of the Friendless, $10,000 to the Episcopal Old Folks' Home, $5000 to the Little Sisters of the Poor, $1000 to the Salvation Army, $40,000 to the Blind Girls' Home, $5000 to the Mulanphy Hospital, $10,000 to Holy Cross Mission, $10,000 to the Christian Old People's Home, $10,000 to the Missouri Association for the Blind, $2000 to the St. Louis Sanitarium, and $5000 to the Mercy Hospital of Fort Scott, Kan.

Individuals Named in Suit.
Individuals who were named as defendants in the will suit included Jane C. Larkin, Margaret R. Cooke, Susan and Mary Magruder and Elizabeth H. Lewis, nieces, and Thomas H. Larkin, D. Lynn and Charles A. Magruder, nephews, and Henry and Lynn A. Larkin, grand-nephews. The St. Louis Union Trust Co., trustee; Charles Cummings Collins, executor, and Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle, representative of Christ Church Cathedral, and the other Episcopal organizations, also were named as defendants.

Average Amount Is $25.
Frank H. Kaskin, attorney for Collector Koenig, said the average amount in each suit was about $25 and the maximum about $1800. It is the Collector's custom to wait until taxes are overdue three or four years before filing suit for their collection. About the same number of back tax suits are filed each year.

In suits for back taxes there is added to the amount of the taxes a penalty of 1 per cent a month for delinquency and an additional 5 per cent for the attorney's fee.

Collector Koenig said that approximately 70 per cent of the 2200 defendants had made voluntary returns on their taxable personal property, but had failed to pay the taxes. The remaining 30 per cent, he said, failed to make any returns and after their personal property had been assessed by the Assessor they neglected to pay the tax bills rendered by the Collector.

CARL WANDERER GOES TO DEATH ON GALLOWS SINGING

Former Lieutenant Was Convicted of Slaying Wife and Stranger He Hired to Stage Fake Holdup.

VOICE HEARD WHEN TRAP IS SPRUNG

His Execution Was Postponed Several Times by Insanity Hearings and Other Legal Maneuvers.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Singing a popular song, Carl Wanderer, convicted of the murder of his wife, her unborn babe and a ragged stranger whom he hired to stage a fake hold-up, was hanged at the county jail at 7:19 o'clock this morning.

Wanderer marched to the gallows with firm step and as he took his place on the scaffold, repeated a short prayer after a minister. Asked if he had anything to say, he replied in the affirmative, and as a shout was adjusted, in a clear voice started the song "Old Man, Why Don't You Answer Me?" He was singing when the trap dropped.

Hanged for Murder of Vagrant.
The crime for which Carl Wanderer was hanged was the murder of Edward J. Ryan, a West Madison street vagrant, whom he had hired for $5 to stage a fake holdup and then killed. Wanderer was also convicted of the murder of his bride of less than a year and her unborn child, but the jury in that case fixed his punishment at 25 years' imprisonment.

Mrs. Wanderer and Ryan were made public in advance and a large crowd gathered at the railroad station shortly before his train came in.

When he and his party, including his attorneys, alighted and made their way through the station to the street, they were greeted by many personal friends.

Several women rushed forward and embraced the film comedian while chiding him from men were heard. Many in the crowd had apparently gone merely to see what, if anything, would happen, as they made no demonstration whatever.

One woman attracted a large group about her when she mounted a suit case and denounced those who welcomed Arbuckle.

The comedian himself had little to say, except that he was "glad to be back home."

UTAH TOWN SAID TO HAVE BEEN WRECKED BY EARTHQUAKE

Virtually Every Building in Elsinore Made Untenable—Damage Estimated at $100,000.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 30.—Elsinore, one of three hamlets in Southern Utah, shaken severely yesterday by earthquakes, reported another violent tremor at 7:30 o'clock this morning. The latest shock rendered more extensive the damage done yesterday. Practically every building in town was made untenable, according to latest reports.

The damage at Elsinore, Richfield and Monroe was estimated at nearly $100,000. So violent were the tremors that great sections of rock weighing many tons tumbled down from cliffs into nearby canyons. Twelve years ago the same section suffered heavy property loss from a series of tremors.

ST. LOUIS CURB MARKET IN GRAIN IS ABOLISHED

Action Against Gambling in "Puts" and "Calls" Follows Similar Step Taken in Chicago and Kansas City.

Gambling in "puts" and "calls" at the curb session of the local grain market, in the Merchants' Exchange, was stopped today by vote of the exchange to abolish the curb market. Henceforth the small gamblers with $5 or $10 to bet on the rise or fall of the market over night will have no reputable dealer to handle his transactions. On a $5 bet a gambler could deal in 5000 bushels of grain and could win as much as $100.

Curb transactions were seriously interfered with by the Tichnor bill, recently passed by Congress, which placed a tax of 25 cents a bushel on all curb deals in grain. The Chicago Board of Trade and the Kansas City Grain Exchange recently voted to abolish their curb markets, effective tomorrow.

Curb sessions followed the regular sessions of the Merchants' Exchange and usually were held on the exchange floor corridor. The practice originally was a sort of insurance overnight on regular exchange floor transactions. For a small margin a dealer on the exchange could protect himself against loss by playing the curb market. Gradually "small fry" with $5 or $10 to risk began playing the curb market in increasing numbers.

The order voted today by the Merchants' Exchange was:

"On and after Oct. 1, 1921, no member of this exchange and no person, firm or corporation admitted to trade or to do business therein shall make transactions known to the trade as 'privileges,' 'bids,' 'offers,' 'puts,' 'calls,' 'ups,' 'downs,' or 'indemnities,' nor shall they handle any purchase or sale of grain for future delivery that may arise from such transaction."

"A violation of this section shall subject the person, firm or corporation to suspension or expulsion at the discretion of the Board of Directors."

ARBUCKLE GREETED BY CROWD IN LOS ANGELES

Several Women Embrace Comedian While Another Woman Denounces Them.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 30.—Roscoe (Patty) Arbuckle returned to his home here today from San Francisco, where Wednesday he was admitted to bail pending his trial on a manslaughter charge growing out of the death of Miss Virginia Rappé.

The hour of his arrival had been made public in advance and a large crowd gathered at the railroad station shortly before his train came in.

When he and his party, including his attorneys, alighted and made their way through the station to the street, they were greeted by many personal friends.

Several women rushed forward and embraced the film comedian while chiding him from men were heard. Many in the crowd had apparently gone merely to see what, if anything, would happen, as they made no demonstration whatever.

WORLD CONFERENCE OF IRISH PLANNED

Collection of Funds in U. S. for Use of Ireland Stopped—Campaign for $20,000,000 Irish Loan to Be Started in November.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 30.—Eamon de Valera today sent a communication to Prime Minister Lloyd George, accepting the invitation to a conference in London on Oct. 11, with a view to a settlement of the Irish question.

In his reply, De Valera said: "We received your letter of invitation to a conference in London, Oct. 11, with a view to ascertaining how the association of Ireland with the British Empire may best be reconciled with Irish national aspirations."

"Our respective positions have been stated and understood, and we agree that conference, not correspondence, is the most practical and hopeful way to an understanding."

"We accept the invitation. Our delegates will meet you in London on the date mentioned and explore every possibility of a settlement by personal discussion."

World Conference of Irish People Planned for Next January.
DUBLIN, Sept. 30.—A world conference of the Irish people will be held in Paris on Jan. 27, 1922, the anniversary of the death of the Dal Eireann, it was announced by the Sinn Fein organization here yesterday.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Stephen M. O'Mara, financial representative in the United States of the Dal Eireann, the Irish Republican Parliament, today announced that collection of funds in this country for the use of Ireland has been ordered stopped. The only exception made is for the Irish Relief Committee, whose campaign for funds is practically completed.

The order, O'Mara said, "is not meant as any reflection on the purpose of the collection, but is a necessary step in the way of preparation for the forthcoming campaign for the $20,000,000 Irish loan, authorized by the Dal Eireann." The loan campaign will start about Nov. 15.

THREE MEN HELD IN ROBBERY AND SWINDLE ATTEMPT

Fourth Man in Holdup of Two Campers on Meramec Near Hillcrest Station Gets Away.

POSED AS FEDERAL PROHIBITION AGENTS

Took $110 From Men After Accusing Them of Making
Moonshine — Demanded
More to Drop Case.

Three men are held at police headquarters on the charge of holding up two campers at their camp on the Meramec River, about 11 miles south of the city limits, and taking $110 from them. One of the prisoners is charged with bringing one of the campers into the city, and attempting to compel him to draw his savings, about $500, out of the Chippewa Bank, Jefferson avenue and Chippewa street. A fourth man, who acted as driver on the trip to the city, escaped.

Two policemen were near the Chippewa Bank at 3:30 p. m. yesterday, when one of two men, who were approaching the bank, broke away from the other man and ran. The police were unable to catch him, and for the arrest of the other man.

Driver of Truck Escapes.
The policemen seized the man, who had appealed to them pointed to a small automobile truck, a short distance away, and asked that the police arrest the driver, who was then driving away from the truck. The policemen, with one prisoner in tow, were unable to keep in sight of the driver, who soon disappeared, leaving the truck abandoned.

The man who had made the appeal to the policemen then told them his story.

"I am Clyde Burch of 3844 Oregon avenue," he said. "I am camping on the Meramec, near Hillcrest Station, with Herman Maye of Elmwood." This afternoon about 2 o'clock, while Maye was asleep in the tent, three men came up to the camp and asked for Herman. I told them he was in the tent, and gave no further attention to them at that time, but went down to the river to fix a boat.

"When I came back after 15 minutes or so, two of the men pointed revolvers at me and told me to come with them. They walked me to a shed about 100 feet from the tent, and there Maye was tied with ropes and was being guarded by the man (the one arrested at the bank).

Posed as Federal Agents.
The men said they were Federal agents and that they understood we were making moonshine whisky. They searched us both and took $65 from me and $45 from Maye. One of the men counted out the $110 and said it wasn't enough, and that they would have to lock us up unless we could get more. They found in my pocket a blank check of the Chippewa Bank, and asked if I had an account there. I said no, but my wife had one. They then began to talk about killing us, and I told them I had about $500 in the bank.

"The man said he would take me to the bank to get the money, and he and the driver came in with me, leaving two in charge of Maye." The policemen reported the case to headquarters and city detectives were hurried in automobiles to the camp on the Meramec, arriving at 4:30. They found Maye, still tied, and he told them that his two captors had left a short time before, after asking him the way to the nearest railroad station. The detectives found the men at Hillcrest Station, waiting to flag a Missouri Pacific train, there being a train about due. Both were arrested.

Names Given by Prisoners.
The man arrested at the bank said he was John McFadden of 4242 Easton avenue. The two arrested at Hillcrest were booked by the police as Albert Varrington of 5544 Etzel avenue and Carl Benson of 1815 Lynch street, East St. Louis. Benson first gave his address as 4359 Forest Park boulevard, St. Louis. McFadden had a revolver of Belgian make and Varrington had two revolvers, one of which he had taken from the campers.

Warrington had $21.65 and Benson had $23.37. The alleged robbery took place in Jefferson County. It may be necessary to turn Warrington and Benson over to the authorities of that county. Whether the attempted extortion of money at the bank would constitute an offense on which to prosecute McFadden in the city, is a question on which the police may require legal advice.

The abandoned truck was the property of E. Williams of 2945 Olive street, who said to the police that he rented it at 11 a. m. to a man who said he wanted it for the day.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Improvement in medical X-ray outfits to the extent that all danger of electrical shocks and burns has been eliminated, was described today by Dr. W. D. Coolidge of the General Electric Co.'s research laboratory at Schenectady, N. Y. At the same time, he said, the outfits have been rendered so compact that efficient models but little larger than a camera may now be purchased.

Dr. Coolidge described two new types of self-contained oil-immersed X-ray outfits for use in the doctor's office.

PIGEONS FOLLOW MAN OUT OF BUILDING TO ESCAPE FIRE

Many of Birds Enveloped in Flames and Fall Into River as They Escape.

By the Associated Press.
ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 30.—When an employe of a wholesale produce firm here dived through a second-story window to escape flames which were consuming the building, last night, hundreds of pigeons followed him. As they emerged from the broken window the black background of night made noticeable spots of flame on wings and tails of many of the birds. Their course was over the Mississippi River. Fanned by the motion of flying, the flames spread until the birds were enveloped and many of them, like falling rockets, dropped into the stream.

Stenographers Asked to Register.

$41,500, MAILED BY ST. LOUIS BANK, STOLEN IN ILLINOIS

Robber Ties Taxicab Driver and Friend to Trees, Takes Money From Pouch and Escapes in Auto.

MACHINE LATER FOUND ABANDONED

Holdup Occurs When Substitute Mail Carrier Is Transporting Payroll Money Near Carterville, Ill.

A registered package containing $41,500 mailed by the Boatmen's Bank in St. Louis to the Hurst State Bank at Hurst, Ill., about 100 miles southeast of St. Louis, to meet the semi-monthly payroll of the Western Coal and Mining Co. mine at Bush, Ill., was stolen yesterday afternoon by a robber who was carried as a passenger in the automobile used in carrying the mail from Carterville to Hurst.

Officers of Boatmen's Bank said the bank carried a large insurance policy covering shipments of money by registered mail.

The automobile has been operated in the dual capacity of mail carrier and taxicab. It is driven by Lawrence Jerald, 32 years old, of Carterville, substituting for the regular driver, Edward Zimmerman, who is ill.

Robber Abandons Auto.
Jerald, a friend of Jerald's, rode in the front seat with him. Before escaping with the money the robber tied Jerald and James to trees. He rode away in the mail-carrier's "jitney," which later was found abandoned near Cambria, three miles northwest of Carterville.

Jerald after some time worked loose from the ropes and released James. On his return to Carterville Jerald said he was about to start from the railroad station at Carterville with the mail when a tall, dark-haired man with a plaster patch on the left side of his face, dressed in a car as a passenger. He sat in the rear seat. The mail was piled in the front of the car at the feet of Jerald and James.

They had covered about half of the seven-mile drive to Hurst when the stranger in the rear seat pressed a revolver against Jerald's back and ordered him to throw out the registered mail pouch. Jerald obeyed and the robber commanded, "Now get out and cut the sack open."

Jerald and James, covered by the robber's revolver, got out of the automobile and Jerald cut open the sack. The robber then forced Jerald and James to walk some distance into the woods. After tying them to trees he went back to the road.

Might Have Taken Train.
At Cambria, where the automobile was abandoned, it would have been possible for the robber to catch an Illinois Central train running between Johnston City and Carbondale.

At the headquarters of the Western Coal and Mining Co., in the railway Exchange Building, Edward S. Johnson, treasurer of the company, today said the transportation of the payroll money was in the hands of the banks. Following the usual custom, guards employed by the company would have gone to the Hurst bank today and taken the money to the company's mine, about a mile from Hurst.

MORE CHARGES TO BE MADE AGAINST SHERIFF WILLMANN

Prosecutor to Amend Neglect Complaint Before Case Is Called for Trial Oct. 10.

Prosecuting Attorney Mueller of St. Louis County announced today that the pending charges of neglect of duty against Sheriff Willmann would be amended by the addition of further charges, before the hearing on the proposed removal of the Sheriff is held in Judge McElhinney's court, Oct. 10. Mueller said he and Harry Castlen, special prosecutor in the removal proceedings, would draw up the amendments to the charges tonight.

A. E. L. Gardner, attorney for Willmann, said he would be ready to go to trial Oct. 10 on the original charges, but that he could not say whether he could meet amended charges so soon as that. The charges now pending are based on the Sheriff's alleged laxity in enforcing the State prohibition law and are connected with the finding of two stills, one of them on a farm where the Sheriff had rented space for storage of confiscated liquor.

INQUIRY INTO POLICEMAN'S BUYING $154,000 APARTMENT

New York Inspector Says He Made $32,000 in Stock Speculations and Paid $20,000 Down.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Stock speculations by Police Inspector John F. Dwyer, his purchase of a $154,000 apartment house and the alleged employment of two policemen under his command by his attorney in connection with a civil suit were investigated yesterday by the Meyer Legislative Committee.

After the inspector bought the house, through his attorney, Warren Leslie, with a $20,000 cash payment, he was known to his tenants as William Leslie, the name of the attorney's father. The inspector's explanation was that because he was a police officer "they would holler police persecution" should action be taken against disorderly tenants, and this would be embarrassing.

Inspector Dwyer declared he accumulated $32,000 in stock speculations through five brokers, and by savings from his salary, that after putting $20,000 into the house, he incorporated the business and assigned his stock to his son, Capt. Candean of the police reserves managed the corporation, he added.

The captives could hear the automobile being driven away. Later the rifled mail sack was found at the roadside.

At Cambria, where the automobile was abandoned, it would have been possible for the robber to catch an Illinois Central train running between Johnston City and Carbondale.

At the headquarters of the Western Coal and Mining Co., in the railway Exchange Building, Edward S. Johnson, treasurer of the company, today said the transportation of the payroll money was in the hands of the banks. Following the usual custom, guards employed by the company would have gone to the Hurst bank today and taken the money to the company's mine, about a mile from Hurst.

HUGE AERIAL BOMB BLOWS CRATER 100 FEET WIDE, 25 DEEP

Projectile Weighing 4300 Pounds Dropped From Airplane in Test at Army Proving Grounds.

By the Associated Press.
ABERDEEN, Md., Sept. 30.—A crater 100 feet in diameter and 25 feet deep, was blown into the earth at the Army proving grounds here today by a bomb weighing 4300 pounds dropped from an altitude of 4100 feet. This was the result of the first test of a new aerial bomb, the heaviest and probably the most destructive ever constructed. It was dropped from a Handley-Page airplane equipped with a device for carrying and releasing the projectile.

Army and navy officers who witnessed the test from the spot chosen for the trial, expressed satisfaction with the result. They suffered no ill effects from the terrific concussion.

Capt. Norbert Carolin piloted the plane on its perilous undertaking, accompanied by Sgt. Stewart Smith and Corporal Louis Averitt as bombers.

REPORTS FINDING OF GOLD BURIED DURING REVOLUTION

Staten Island Man Says Hoard Was Hidden by Grandfather in Fear of Seizure by British.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Col. John W. Homan of Staten Island was enriched today by a hoard of gold and diamonds buried during the revolutionary war by his grandfather, who feared they might be seized by British troops.

Col. Homan's grandfather died without revealing the hiding place of the treasure. It was found by workmen excavating for a cellar. Col. Homan declined to estimate the value of the find until he had the diamonds appraised by experts.

$35,000 SUIT OVER RAILWAY DEAL IN 1906

Francis Bro. & Co. and Several Individuals Defendants in Action by Broker.

A suit for $35,000 against Francis Bro. & Co., and a group of financiers, who were connected with the financing of the Missouri & North Arkansas Railway in 1906, was filed today in the Circuit Court by Leonidas S. Mitchell of 4426 Lindell boulevard, an investment broker. The members of the Francis firm named are David R., Thomas H. J. D. Perry, D. R. Jr., and Tarlton T. Francis and Charles H. Helmenz. It is alleged, the defendants, as members of a bondholders' committee, were acting in their own protection, and for that reason are liable for obligations growing out of the transaction. Mitchell alleges he owned $35,000 of notes of the Allegheny Improvement Co., through which the refinancing was carried out, and that the notes are unpaid.

The Missouri & North Arkansas Railway, extending from Joplin, Mo., to Helena, Ark., recently suspended, being unable to pay operating expenses. Negotiations are now under way for reopening the road.

A suit similar to the one filed today is pending in the Missouri Supreme Court. It includes some of the same defendants and was brought by the National Bank of Commerce, which asked for judgment for $25,000.

NEW CONSTITUTION WORKERS TO CONFER WITH GOV. HYDE

Jan. 17 to Be Urged as Date of Electing Delegates—Committee to Gather Data to Be Suggested.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 30.—Two committees from the New Constitution Association of Missouri arrived in Jefferson City today for conference with Gov. Hyde on matters connected with the calling of a constitutional convention.

One committee, the members of which are Dr. W. H. Blaes of Marshall, Mrs. George Gellhorn of St. Louis and H. H. Mathonet of Kansas City, will discuss with the Governor the date for the election of delegates to the convention. The committee will suggest Jan. 17.

The other committee, J. Linberger Davis of St. Louis, Prof. George Melcher of Kansas City, Walter Matlock of Kansas City, Dr. Eldor Loeb of Columbia and W. M. Ledbetter of St. Louis, will discuss plans for a committee to gather data for the information of the delegates to the convention. They will suggest that the Governor recommend to the special session of the Legislature a bill creating such a committee, or that the Governor create a semi-official committee with the expectation that the constitutional convention will appropriate funds to pay its expenses.

4 PERSONS MAROONED IN AUTO ALL NIGHT

Youth Stays in County With Grandfathers and Uncle Until He Can Get Out of Mud.

Caught on low ground on a lonely road in St. Louis County during a rainstorm yesterday afternoon, Paul R. Heaney, 18 years old, a student at Yeatman High School, and his two grandfathers and an uncle, spent the night in their automobile which was stuck in the mud. Not until this morning were they able to get the car out, and they reached home at 8:15 o'clock, putting an end to a search of the county by officers and friends who had been notified of their unaccountable absence.

Although one of the elderly men was without a coat and the other is quite feeble, the party got through the night none the worse for the experience, and after being refreshed with hot breakfasts, showed no signs of their long exposure to the sudden chilly weather.

As is his daily custom, Paul yesterday afternoon took his grandfather, William Heaney, 78 years old, retired contractor, and called for his other grandfather, Luther M. Carter of 4242A Holly avenue, and his uncle, Clyde Carter, 40, who is in ill health, and took them for a ride in the county.

When they did not return home before dark, the relatives became alarmed, as they feared the party had come to harm in the rainstorm that broke about 5 o'clock.

City and county officials were notified and began a search, while many friends of the family went out in automobiles to search the roads in the northwestern part of the county.

An all-night vigil was kept at both homes, and the anxiety of the families had become acute when the missing machine, with its shivering but smiling occupants, drew up in front of the Carter home on Holly avenue this morning.

None would speak of the experience other than to remark that they were stuck in a mudhole near Jennings all night and were quite uncomfortable from cold.

CALLS FOR PAYMENT AT RATE OF EXCHANGE ON NOV. 11, 1918

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Sept. 30.—Rowland W. Boyden, American member of the American Reparations Commission, ruled today that Belgium's debts to the allies payable by Germany under the peace treaty should be made at the rate of exchange for gold marks on Armistice day, Nov. 11, 1918. He was asked to make a decision by the Allied Supreme Council when question arose as to whether payment should be made at the present rates, or upon the rate at the time the loans were made.

The Versailles treaty prescribed that Germany should pay in gold marks Belgium's debts to the allies, these debts having been contracted in pounds and francs.

Under Boyden's judgment, France will receive more than 2,000,000,000 gold marks instead of less than 1,000,000,000 which she would have received had the proposal of her allies been accepted.

Fall 1921 Finds Bond's Leading In Value-Giving as Usual

WHAT'S MORE, we never intend to be out of this position, leading all others. That is one of the reasons why Bond's organization has grown to its present tremendous proportions in such a short space of time. Men like to know they're getting their money's worth; they like to know they're buying the newest styles; they like to know they can be certain of the quality they purchase. That's why so many thousands of men like to buy their clothes at Bond's. And another feature, of course, is our very unusual price—unusually low price, as compared with any other clothier's.

Suits, Topcoats, Overcoats

Why We Charge for Alterations

Frankly, we have to, if we would set our price for Fall at such a low figure as $27.50. We're fair about it, men—we simply ask you to pay for what you actually get; no more, no less.

If the garment you select needs no alterations, you pay nothing extra. If they do need fixing up a bit, you pay only for the cost to us of making these alterations.

All trouser bottoms finished to proper length free of charge

Marvelous Suits—Wonderful Overcoats

New York's very latest, of course—because we operate our New York headquarters for just that purpose. Whenever anything new makes its appearance we have it at once, and it's in our outlet stores almost immediately. This practice keeps us several months ahead of the average retailer who buys but a few times a year and even then places his orders for future shipment—because he usually has to wait for the merchandise to be made up.

Greatest Overcoat Display Ever Held in St. Louis

Great in point of numbers—but greater still in point of values represented. Besides a purchase of some 15,000 Coats from three nation ally famous makers, we have the product of our own factories. This gives us an opportunity to show about ten Coats to the average store's one. If you hesitate in believing this—come in and see for yourself.

Cutting Our Costs Cuts Our Price

Bond's organization—with the manufacturing and the outlet ends—are ever watchful of costs; if we can keep them within reason, our price to you can be made lower. In fact it was through our ability to cut costs without cutting quality that we were recently enabled to bring our prices down to a new low level—$27.50. Comparing Bond's Clothes with what the ordinary retailer is showing, we believe we're safe in saying we save you $10 to $15. Comparison will prove whether or not we're right. Try it.

Bond's "Juniors"

For high-school and college fellows, and for the youngster just about to wear his first long pants.

Because of the variety of styles, if for no other reason, the younger fellows just naturally figure that Bond's is "the only store in town."

It takes these youngsters to find out where "what's what" in styles can be seen. That's why we specialize in Bond's "Juniors" Suits and Overcoats, made exactly as well as dad's, but with more snap and "ginger."

At the First Chill Breath of Autumn It's Here!

AUTUMN, with its gray skies, falling leaves and cold, crisp air, has caught up with us. And the first days of October mischievously tease the unprepared by their sudden change. No one can be carefree or brightly smiling with shivers chasing each other up and down one's cringing spinal column. Hence WE favor preparedness.

Serge Instead

The gray little gingham dresses which were so conspicuously present on the playgrounds last week have made way for the "serge" little Serge. WAR MOTHERS OPPOSE WINES

Resolutions Also Call Attention to Christmas Celebration in Army Hospitals.

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 20.—

The War Mothers of America, in convention here yesterday, adopted resolutions opposing the movement for legislation of light wines, urging members to give more attention to Christmas celebrations in army camps and hospitals, and recommending that the Government assume responsibility for overpay-ment of soldiers due to clerical errors, instead of asking that the soldiers return the excess pay.

The anti-wine resolution was offered by Mrs. H. H. McClure of Kansas City, Mo., and opposed by three California delegates.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF PLAN TO BE SUBMITTED TODAY

Tentative Recommendations Understood to Be Based on Principle Idleness Is Community Problem.

LOCAL COMMITTEES TO LIST JOBLESS MEN

Split-Time Schedules in Factories, Pushing to Public Works and Repair Work to Be Urged.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—An emergency program involving Federal, state and municipal action for the relief of the country's unemployed was adopted today by the national conference on unemployment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Tentative recommendations for providing work for the nation's jobless workers, estimated at 4,000,000, were completed today for submission to the National Conference on Unemployment.

The recommendations, drawn up by the conference's steering committee on the basis of reports from the various other conference committees, were characterized as an emergency program and said to be based on the principle that unemployment is in the main a problem for solution by the individual communities, the Federal and State Governments aiding in such ways as possible.

Establishment of representative emergency committees in the communities to co-ordinate the work of finding jobs for the involuntary idle and for registration of the unemployed is understood to be recommended as the initial step in the relief program.

Other Recommendations.
Other recommendations are understood to include:

Publication of the number of unemployed by the individual communities.

Establishment of part time work by manufacturers, thus increasing the number of workers used by each plant.

Operation of factories and mills in the making of stock where possible.

Continuation of repair and similar work on a normal scale.

Doing of repair and alteration work by office buildings, hotel and home owners during the coming winter instead of in the spring, as usual.

Expansion of street, sewage, repair and building work by municipalities to the maximum volume.

Establishment of part time work by municipalities.

Co-operation by State officials with local leaders in the unemployment relief movement through the hastening of road, state building and similar construction.

Sweden Late in Day.
Construction immediately by the Federal Government of buildings and other works for which appropriations are available.

Action by Congress at the present session on road construction legislation.

Enactment by Congress of the pending railway funding bill with expenditures of funds conditioned on an increase in employment.

The full conference will receive the Steering Committee's recommendations at a session to be held late in the day. Some changes in the recommendations might be made prior to the meeting of the full conference.

Declaration that the farmers of the nation, if permitted and aided, could help in relieving unemployment is made in a statement to the Conference Committee on Statistics by W. L. Burdick of North Dakota, representing the American Farm Bureau Federation, who is a member of the conference.

BEVERAGE SEIZED AT BREWERY FOUND TO COMPLY WITH LAW

Only 35 of 1 Per Cent of Alcohol Discovered in Liquids Taken in Raid at Ober Brewery.

A thorough analysis of the bottled beverage which was seized by prohibition enforcement agents yesterday at the Ober Brewery, Twelfth and Lynch streets, has shown, according to Agent Cunningham, in charge here, that it had only 35 of 1 per cent alcoholic content. The law permits 40 of 1 per cent. A hasty analysis, following the raid, indicated that the alcoholic content might be as high as 1.1 per cent, but this was not verified on the final test. Cunningham returned the order of the beverage, of which 90 cases had been seized.

The seizure was made on a complaint made by the Rev. W. C. Shupp, superintendent of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League. In a raid at the same brewery Sept. 9 beer of 4.1 per cent alcoholic content was seized.

POLISH REPLY LEADS TO BELIEF BREAK WITH RUSSIA IS UNLIKELY

Mild Answer Causes View in Moscow Treaty Negotiations Will Be Protracted Indefinitely.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—Poland's reply to the request of the Soviet government for an extension of the time limit in the ultimatum threatening a severance of diplomatic relations from Oct. 1 to Oct. 5, was received here today. The reply is so mild that it is thought here relations will not be severed.

While Poland has not officially granted the extension asked for nor formally announced relations will not be broken off on Oct. 1, it is generally assumed in official circles in Moscow that the negotiations over fulfillment of the Riga peace treaty will be prolonged indefinitely without an open break.

A rumor in circulation here that M. Karakhan, the Soviet representative in Warsaw, would be recalled, was denied by the Soviet Foreign Office this evening.

SUIT TO PREVENT ANNEXATION OF TRACT TO CLAYTON HEARD

Judge Hall Takes Under Advisement Protests of Residents of Strip on Clayton Road.

Judge Hall of the St. Louis Circuit Court late yesterday at Clayton took under advisement a suit filed by Bernard H. Stoltman, Frederick H. Semple, Hugh McKittrick Jones and William N. Matthews to prevent Clayton from annexing a mile and one-half strip along the Clayton road, including their residences.

A similar suit, to set aside an ordinance passed by the Town Board was granted in 1917, and the decision was upheld by the St. Louis Court of Appeals. Last January, ordinances to virtually the same effect were passed by the voters. The present suit was filed Feb. 7, and the voters on April 5 passed another similar ordinance, which necessitated amending the petition to include it.

The plaintiffs claim that in the 1925 acres concerned there are only 40 homes, none of which may be considered as city property. Their petition states that they will derive no benefit from Clayton, which does not naturally include their property, and that subjecting them to city taxation would work injustice upon them. They allege that no substantial change has occurred since 1917 in the nature of the property and development of Clayton, and the hearing yesterday was chiefly on this point.

They ask that the standing ordinances be declared void and that the town be enjoined from passing any more such ordinances until there is a material change in the nature of the territory. Judge Hall was appointed by Judges Wurdeman and McElhinney, who were disqualified.

INQUIRY IN BARNHOUSE CASE CONTINUED TO NEXT THURSDAY

Witnesses, Who Did Not Receive Notice of Continuance, Came to City Yesterday.

The State Tax Commission inquiry of the management of the State Food and Drug Department under Dr. E. L. Barnhouse, Commissioner, which was continued from yesterday until today, was again continued by Tax Commissioner McCawley until next Thursday, when Dr. Barnhouse and other witnesses will be heard at the Planters Hotel.

McCawley was unable to reach St. Louis yesterday and through an error his telegraphic instructions to the Tax Commission office in Jefferson City to notify witnesses not to appear, were not carried out. The witnesses were in St. Louis yesterday, but McCawley was not. This necessitated the issuance of new subpoenas, and McCawley continued the hearing until Thursday to obtain service on the witnesses.

WEST END STORE IS HELD UP

Two men walked into the fruit store of Natalie Spaglione, 5902 Delmar boulevard, at midnight, and one of them, drawing a revolver, ordered Spaglione into a rear washroom. They searched Spaglione's pockets and after taking $55 from a purse locked him in the room. From the cash register the men took $74 and departed. A customer entered the store 10 minutes later and released the proprietor.

One man with a revolver held up

Lawrence Callahan in his grocery and saloon at Tiffany avenue and Dutger street at noon yesterday, he reported. He said the robber had taken $10 from the cash register.

Esakul Davis of 2618 Clark avenue, chauffeur of a service car, was stopped at Ewing and Lawton avenues at 2 a. m. today by two negroes who ordered him to drive them to the 4100 block on Gratiot street. In that block one of the negroes drew a revolver and made Davis get out of the machine, robbing him of $12.

$58,242,937 WORTH OF PROPERTY OWNED BY ILLINOIS

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 30.—The State of Illinois owned $58,242,937 worth of property at the beginning of this year, according to an inventory just completed by State Auditor Andrew Russell.

Of this amount a valuation of $11,172,336 was placed on land and lots, $31,658,386 on improvements and $10,522,215 on personal property. The remaining $4,899,850 was property in the custody of the State, including the Statehouse power plant, set at $900; the Governor's mansion and a few other properties.

While no comparative have ever been compiled, it is generally conceded that it has the second largest amount of state-owned property in the New York stands first and vana is believed to be third.

CITY INSTITUTIONS CROWDED, JUNE GRAND JURY REPORTS

Jail and Sanitarium Found Overtaxed and Some Kock Hospital Buildings Dilapidated.

The June grand jury made its final report today to Circuit Judge Landwehr. It returned 130 true bills, 11 ignored bills and examined 554 witnesses.

Attention again was called to the number of prisoners of the city jail being greatly in excess of present capacity, because the two upper floors have not been completed.

Kock Hospital was found efficiently managed, but some of the buildings are dilapidated. It was suggested that dental equipment and an X-ray be installed.

The city sanitarium, designed to accommodate 1600 patients, is occupied by about 2600 persons. Recommendation was made that buildings be erected at the new Scott Municipal Farm as soon as possible to permit removal of feeble-minded patients from the sanitarium. Occupational therapy was praised as being helpful to many patients in keeping their minds from their afflictions.

The October grand jury will be impaneled Monday.

TRADE IN BRITAIN FREED FROM GOVERNMENT CONTROL

Last Vestige of Supervision Passes With Lapse of Government Grant for Mining Industry.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 30.—Trade in Great Britain has been freed from Government control, the last vestige of supervision passing yesterday with the automatic lapse of the Government's grant of £10,000,000 for the coal mining industry. The agricultural wages board, which fixed the minimum to be paid farm workers, recently disappeared. The system of subsidizing industries is considered abolished, with the exception of the grant of £9,000,000 which has been allocated to the carrying out of housing schemes by the Ministry of Health.

Complete freedom from restrictions to individual liberty which were imposed as war-time necessities, has been restored with the expiration of the rents restriction act, which expires in 1933.

MRS. SHIPPEY OBTAINS DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

Decree Granted After 5 Hours' Testimony—Husband's Affair With French Girl Described.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Mark Blake Woodson Shippey late yesterday was granted a divorce from Lee Shippey, former Missouri newspaper man and overseas welfare worker during the war. The court awarded Mrs. Shippey $100 a month alimony, $30 a month for the support of their young son, and $75 attorney's fees.

The decree came after Mrs. Shippey had been on the witness stand about five hours. Dressed in black and walking with the aid of crutches, Mrs. Shippey, who is herself a writer, told of supporting herself during her husband's absence in France, of planning a second honeymoon when he should return, and going to New York to meet him. She testified she even bought a second trousseau, but that the only article in it which seemed to interest her husband was a French shirt-waist, made by Madeleine Babin, a French girl, which he had sent her from Paris.

She said that her husband wrote her of going to live with the Babin, mother and two daughters, and that he led her to believe the daughters were children of 11 or 12. He wrote her, Mrs. Shippey testified, that he called the girls "little sister" and that they called him "big brother." She said Shippey met the girl first while she was taking flowers to lay on French soldiers' graves. She testified her husband was cold toward her after his return and found fault with all her efforts to please. "Nothing I did was right," she said. "He grumbled over paying 10 cents to ride busses in New York and said in Paris it only cost 2 cents; when we went into a restaurant he wanted French cooking and when the waiter couldn't understand what he wanted he would swear like a blue streak. It was a ghastly homecoming."

From New York, she testified, she and her husband came to Kansas City. She said she frequently questioned him while in New York and asked him whether a French girl was the reason for the change in his attitude toward her, and that he denied this impatiently. She said the girl arrived in Kansas City about six weeks after their return here. She told of the subsequent birth to the girl of a child, parentage of which Shippey acknowledged, and which was named Henry George Shippey. It was brought out that Shippey is now in Tampico, Mexico. Madeleine Babin and her son were said to be in Monterey, Mexico. Shippey kept the presence in Kansas City of the girl, a secret from his wife, Mrs. Shippey said.

VETERANS' BUREAU IN ST. LOUIS NOW IN FULL OPERATION

Office Here Has Authority to Make Final Awards and Rate New Claims of Disabled Soldiers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The United States Veterans' Bureau announces that the Ninth Regional District of the bureau, with headquarters at 6801 Delmar boulevard, St.
Louis, now has power and authority to make final awards and rate new claims of disabled soldiers against the Government.

This carries into effect the law enacted last summer providing that benefits for ex-servicemen be administered in districts instead of from Washington. Quicker results were predicted from the change. The announcement follows:

"This administrative change will greatly facilitate the settlement of all soldier claims for compensation, hospitalization, or vocational training. Previously all the claims in the Ninth District, comprising the States of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri, had to be referred to Washington but now all new cases filed by the veterans can be adjudicated at the regional headquarters at St. Louis. This improvement in the administration of the veterans' bureau is the result of decentralization, whereby more authority is conferred on the regional office.

"Hundreds of compensation and insurance experts, vocational advisers, examiners and other personnel will be transferred from Washington to the various district headquarters.
A large number of these will go to St. Louis.

"The additional personnel required by the regional headquarters at 6801 Delmar boulevard, St.
Louis, will be selected as much as possible from the city and surrounding community.

"As a result of this decentralization, there is not a veteran in the country who cannot talk his affairs over personally with a bureau representative in his home town, or within a short distance of it.

"Mr. Middleton E. Head is the acting manager of this district and will have charge of the decentralized regional office.

"To date 3213 claims of disabled veterans have been received as a result of the veterans' bureau cleanup campaign from district No. 9, divided as follows: Nebraska, 771;
Iowa, 532; Kansas, 491; and Missouri, 1519.

"Hereafter all the new claims to the Ninth District, formerly forwarded to Washington, will be finally adjudicated at St. Louis. Veterans and veteran organizations have expressed great satisfaction at the decentralization of the veterans' bureau."

FOUR AUTOS IN COLLISIONS

Mrs. Blinstein's car swerved after the collision and collided with an

Take Yeast
Vitamin Tablets
To Round Out
Face and Figure
With Firm Flesh

If you are hollow-cheeked, sallo-wed, sunken-chested and generally weak or run-down and want to round out your face and figure to pleasing proportions you will find this simple test well worth trying: First, weigh and measure yourself again each week and continue taking VITAMON regularly until you are satisfied with your gain in weight and energy. Mastin's VITAMON tablets contain highly concentrated yeast-vitamins as well as the two (Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C) and are now being used by thousands. They positively will not upset the stomach or cause gas, but on the contrary are a great aid to digestion, to overcome constipation and as a general conditioning of the whole system. Pimples, skin eruptions seem to vanish like magic under its purifying influence.
The complexion becomes fresh and beautiful, the cheeks rosy instead of pale, the lips red instead of colorless, the eyes bright instead of dull. So rapid and amazing are the results that scores of absolutely guaranteed or the trial costs you nothing. Be sure to remember the name Mastin's VITAMON—the original and genuine yeast-vitamin tablet—there is nothing else like it as do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get Mastin's VITAMON at any drugstore.

She said she understood the man had gone to Joplin, Mo. She said he had no authority to take the furs.

MARINES ENACTING SECOND PHASE OF MIMIC BATTLE

Veterans of Belleau Wood Ready to Attack "Enemy" After "Digging In" on Civil War Battle Ground.

LANDED FROM 'FLEET' IN WILDERNESS CREEK

Advanced Behind Smoke Barrage and Assailed Redoubts With Artillery and Machine Guns Yesterday.

By the Associated Press.
WILDERNESS, Va., Sept. 30.—
Another phase of the Civil War wilderness campaign was re-enacted today by the East Coast Expeditionary force of the Marine Corps.
The expeditionary force, which includes the Fifth and Sixth regiments of Belleau Wood line, at the start of today's maneuvers, faced a series of redoubts prepared by the enemy, having attained the dug-in positions where the night was spent after landing from an American "fleet" anchored in Wilderness Creek.

The problem today was to capture the enemy positions through a direct attack "over the top," and in this the members of the Fifth and Sixth, who served in France were counted to show the results of that experience.

The maneuvers today, as on yesterday, were witnessed by a little group of those who as wearers of the Union blue and of the Confederate gray fought over the same ground nearly three score years ago.
Under cover of a smoke barrage laid down by the "fleet" yesterday, the marine expeditionary force threw a landing party ashore, dug in before redoubts prepared by the enemy and waited orders for carrying out the final phase of their mimic battle, the storming of the hostile positions.

The attack was delivered against a theoretical "island," represented by a sector of the north bank of the creek. For half an hour after advance was sounded, the rattle of machine guns and roll of rifle fire told of additional detachments landing behind the curtain created by bursting smoke shells. The temporary trenches were swiftly consolidated and the umpires announced the first phase of the maneuver had been successfully carried out.

Artillery Put in Action.
Artillery including the 155's, weighing two tons each, was then rushed ashore across the little stream, swung into position before the enemy works and went into action. The plan this time being to isolate by artillery and machine gun fire the principal enemy fortresses which was subsequently bear the brunt of the bayonet assault.

In making their attacks the Fifth and Sixth Marine regiments showed minutely the presence in their ranks of large numbers of the veterans who earned for those organizations their high reputation in the world war. The attacking parties of both regiments went forward with machine-like regularity and precision, and the spirit and vigor of the attacking parties made the mimic war seem most real.

Night Attack by Airplanes.
In the evening a night attack by bombing airplanes on the silhouette of a battleship was scheduled. In which a squadron of giant Martin bombers of the Marine aviation force, accompanied by flights of scout planes, engaged in a duel with the Marine Corps anti-aircraft batteries equipped with newly invented devices for locating and finding the range of airplanes in the air. So perfectly have these devices been worked out that an average of 60 per cent of hits has been secured by the guns at night, according to the calculations of those in charge of the work.

Witnesses of yesterday's spectacle included many men high in the councils of the nation, both in military and civil life, among them were Major-General John A. Le-jeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, who led the Second Division overseas; Major-General W. C. Neville, who commanded the Marine Brigade; Admiral Moffit, head of naval aviation; 17 Senators and Congressmen, the Governor of Virginia and staff, and a host of others.

PREDICTS FILMS IN SCHOOLS WILL PROMOTE ATTENDANCE

Chief Chicago Truant Officer Strongly in Favor of Visual Education.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—That the recently announced adoption of educational films for all of Chicago's public schools will prove a distinct boon to truant officers, is the prophecy of William L. Bodine, Superintendent of Compulsory Education, who declares that every new measure taken to increase the attractiveness of school work is mirrored in the records of his department.

"In past years truancy presented far more of a problem than it does today," said Bodine. "The low truancy rate of recent years is explained not only by the rigid enforcement of the compulsory education law and the efficient work of truant officers, but by the fact that each year more is being done to make school appeal to boys and girls."

"Today truancy in Chicago amounts to barely one per cent of the enrollment. With only 78 truant officers, we are covering an area of 290 square miles, with approximately 550,000 pupils in public and private schools combined. Slides are already being used in Chicago schools to a large extent, and with the addition of educational movies, which will be shown in the classroom in connection with the lesson, I look to see even that one per cent average considerably reduced. I am strongly in favor of visual education, because I realize that it will do much to promote attendance."

MAN, BURNED WHEN TESTING 6600-VOLT FUSE, DIES

Joseph Geisel Was Injured When Alone in Basement of Union Electric Page Av. Substation.

Policemen investigating the death at the Josephine Hospital of Edwin Geisel, 40 years old, of 6112 North Broadway, at 5 p. m., Wednesday, learned he had died from burns suffered earlier in the day at the substation of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., 6441 Page avenue, St. Louis County.

The police were told that Geisel, when alone in the basement of the substation, had attempted to test a 6600-volt fuse and in some manner had caused an "arc," which set fire to his clothing. He was found a short time later by other employees and taken to the hospital, where doctors found he had been burned on the chest, arms and neck.

THREE TAKEN IN LIQUOR RAIDS

Policemen Search Two Saloons and One Residence.

Arthur Mitchell, 35 years old, of the Blue Grass Hotel, proprietor of a saloon at 576 De Ballviere avenue, was arrested at 5 p. m. yesterday when policemen searching the saloon say they found a bottle, supposed to contain whiskey, in the lobby and another bottle of the same liquor on the drainboard behind the bar. In the basement under the saloon 20 pint bottles in a basket and three cases of 24 bottles each, supposed to contain beer, were found.

Jake Smith, 31, proprietor of a saloon at 2029 South Broadway, was arrested last night when policemen found in the yard at the rear of the saloon 13 bottles of what they say is homemade beer. John Demko, 28, of 1315 Merchant street, was arrested at his home when policemen searched the premises last night without a search warrant and say they found two barrels containing apple and raisin mash.

Studebaker

This is a Studebaker Year

For the first eight months of 1921,

Our sales of Studebaker Cars were:

41% MORE than for the same period of 1920.
101% MORE than for the same period of 1919.

But our sales of Repair Parts were:

13% LESS than for the same period of 1920.
3% LESS than for the same period of 1919.

While the total numbers of Studebaker Cars sold were:

326,000 up to September 1st, 1919.
375,000 up to September 1st, 1920.
442,000 up to September 1st, 1921.

Summing up 116,000 more Studebaker Cars were maintained in operation with 3% less parts business than two years ago, which conclusively proves that—

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

The POST-DISPATCH is the only St. Louis newspaper giving Associated Press news.

She saved the President's Life

In the greatest crisis of the nation's history the President lay desperately ill. Washington was alarmed, suspicious, whispering "petticoat government."

The President might have died!

But at the door of his chamber his wife stood guard—the buffer between the sick man and the America he had led to victory.

* * * * *

America has never known Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. She has never given an interview; she has never courted publicity; she has refused to play for popularity.

But now that Mr. Wilson has retired to private life the story of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson can be told.

* * * * *

The story of the White-House courtship, when the President sent her each day the orchids she loved.

The story of their engagement, their marriage, their happy home life.

The story of her efforts to relieve the heavy strain of the early war days.

The story of her devotion, her sympathy, her tact, her wit, her vigilance in those latter days when Mr. Wilson lay ill.

* * * * *

There is no politics in the story of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Hers is the story of a heroic wife, a super nurse, a super secretary—the story of the woman who saved the President's life. * * * *

It is told in the October issue of THE HOME JOURNAL—one of forty-odd features, including:

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the welfare of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Scrap of Waste.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In the Post-Dispatch recently appeared an appeal from the Director of Public Welfare for scrap of waste materials for the use of the Occupational Therapy Department at the city sanitarium and the city hospital.

There is an analogy between this kind of salvage and the salvage of human material attempted by occupational therapy. Both in their present state are waste material. Both may be impossible of conversion into whole products. Both by skillful treatment may be converted into products both useful and attractive.

When one walks the halls of hospitals for the mentally sick one is reminded of the simile of a scrap heap, and heretofore the salvage has been less than is attainable. When clever effort is applied, however, it is found that by piecing together the little scraps of faculties left to these unfortunate folk, something very different from what we begin with results. Instead of an unduly meagre we have often at least some orderliness. We have converted a waste product, if not into an asset, at least into a reduced liability. And more, we have recovered for the individual such part of the most precious of all human possessions—the mental faculties—as are recoverable.

It is a fact common to human experience that a study of waste products results frequently in the most remarkable returns. One easily calls to mind many such instances in the commercial world. The discovery of the necessary processes is usually the result of earnest study and often of personal self-sacrifice on the part of skillful students. Once the intricacies have been solved it is possible for many to learn to apply the new knowledge. Then the bringing together of the various elements—in the case of the sanitarium, the skillful therapist, the human material to be converted, and the waste material from the community which serves as the reagent.

The appeal of Mr. Cunliff should not go unheeded. Many thousands of us have scraps of silk, cotton and woolen cloth, discarded hats, belts, feathers, beads, shoes, slippers, stockings—the list is endless—that may be utilized by the therapists in their wonderful and useful efforts. Any of us may have a part, even if it is a small part, in this work. M. A. BLISS.

Men Out of Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE true cause of business depression is the rent hog. He takes all the money and makes no repairs, thereby keeping labor idle.

No money to buy clothes—factories shut down—men out of work.
No money to buy proper food—stores running short-handed—men out of work.
No money to buy shoes—factories dark—men out of work.

No money to buy toys for the children—unhappiness—men out of work.
No houses to be had for reasonable rent. Result: Lowered living standards, congestion, disease, immorality.

VICTIM.

The Thorsen Case.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
PROBABLY the Republicans have never forgotten—will never forget—certain appointments made by President Wilson during his administration, according to them, from "personal motives" or partisan ones. At such times they raised their voices to heaven in righteous indignation and flung bitter criticism at the malefactor, this colossal dictator, who dared to establish any precedents, whether for good or evil.

Let us unchastened Democrats now sit patiently and listen intently for the statement of these same Republicans on Harding's recent action in the matter of ousting Land Office Surveyor Thorsen of Utah, whose resignation he "courteously requested" simply because of the "current demand for the recognition of aspirants within our Republican party for consideration in the matter of patronage."

This request was courteously and reasonably declined by Thorsen, because it was made before his term of office expired and without his "being accused of or being guilty of any definite failure or neglect of duty." In addition, his letter very properly expressed his willingness "to make any minor changes of administration of the duties of the office if desired by the department." In fact, his entire letter shows good sense, good faith and good spirit.

Is this a sample of the fine readjustment to be made by the new administration? Are our Governmental offices to be distributed to "political administrative aspirants" at the expense of men who are honestly and faithfully performing their duties but who, anathema belong to the old regime?

Place in Heaven.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE party who signs herself "Old Maid" evidently knows very little of the ways of God or the duties of married life. In support of herself, and probably one or more worthy dependents, there is most assuredly a place in heaven.

READER.

THE NEWBERRY TAIN.

The whitewash of the majority of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections did not cleanse Newberry's tainted seat. The majority report recommending that Newberry retain his seat in the Senate gave him a clean bill of moral health, but the testimony belies the report.

There is no denial of the expenditure of enormous sums of money to obtain Newberry's nomination. Both majority and minority reports admit the money charge and condemn the use of money as a great evil. The only point at issue was whether Mr. Newberry was a party to the raising and expending of the enormous fund spent for his nomination or whether he was cognizant of and approved the expenditures. Even if there were no evidence that Mr. Newberry knew that a great fund was being raised and expended to obtain his senatorial nomination, it is a reflection upon his intelligence to hold that his family and friends could raise a huge fund for his benefit and organize a committee, the head of which was in constant communication with him, to expend the money without his knowledge and tact if not spoken consent. It is assumed that he would not sell his own hands and would personally hold aloof from the actual work of raising and spending the money, but that does not lessen his guilt. It merely adds hypocrisy to corruption. The evidence, however, shows that his attention was called to the scandalous expenditures of money in his campaign by A. H. Vandenberg of the Grand Rapids Herald and Lieutenant-Governor Loren D. Dickinson of Michigan, who wrote him that his campaign was being likened to "the notorious Lorimer campaign of Illinois a few years ago." There is no evidence that Mr. Newberry did more than dodge the issue.

The evidence seems to justify Senator Ashurst's statement that the Newberry credentials are "stained by fraud and tainted by illegal expenditures of money," and that to encourage these methods "would be to embolden and to multiply the most baleful assaults that can be made upon representative government."

The worst feature of the Newberry case is not the purchase of the nomination by the use of money in the election, but the seating of the beneficiary of corruption and his personal exonerated by his party associates in the Senate of the United States. It is not the attack of Croesus on honest elections that hurts, but the success of the attack and the whitewashing of the Moneybag. That does what Senator Ashurst deplores, emboldens and multiplies assaults on representative government.

Henry Ford's announced intention to conduct a campaign against the men who "whitewash" political corruptionists may seem quixotic, but it is justifiable as a desperate attempt to protect representative government from the debauchery of wealth. Mr. Ford is right when he says that "free government cannot survive the wholesale corruption of the electorate." The Government is tainted by the seating of Newberry.

THE SHUPP-MILLER BOUT.

What with Jugo-Slavia snapping at the ankles of unoffending Albania, with the Porto Ricans bouncing coconuts off of E. Mont Reilly's crown, and, unsteady head, with Ty Cobb and Umpire Evans debating a point of diamond etiquette with decolleté fiats, with Borah biting large chunks out of the entente cordiale that was to span the gap between the White House and the Senate—what with all those wars and rumors of wars cluttering the day's news, it does seem as if Brother Shupp and Chairman Miller of the Police Board might have postponed their harangue to a quieter moment.

And what should Brother Shupp and Mr. Miller have to quarrel about, anyhow? From a seat in the remote gallery of neutrality those chaps look like birds of a feather. That the enforcement of prohibition to the tune of 100 per cent plus is the pure desire of Brother Shupp's dry heart may not be questioned. But is not Mr. Miller moved by the same worthy impulse? Has not Mr. Miller preached enforcement as fervently as Brother Shupp has, and even more fluently? And though the perfection of complete drouth, of perfect gloom, seems not to have been attained here, still it is admitted even by Brother Shupp that St. Louis has made a handsome prohibition success than has any other city.

Then wherefore the display of Shuppan temper, why the unkind words? It may be that Mr. Miller has erred in "talking too damned much," to quote our esteemed Governor? But, even so, is it becoming in a gentleman of Brother Shupp's profession to condemn a sinner from the houseposts of the first page? If reprimand were needed, would it not have been more seemly to administer it gently, far from the maddening crowd's ignoble gaze?

Really, it seems as if prohibition leads its votaries into as deplorable excesses as its violators. It warps the judgment, envenoms the tongue and sours the soul of its highest priests. Brother Shupp upbraiding Miller for vainglorious is not an edifying spectacle. If Lachesis failed to weave a thread of modesty into Miller's spiritual fabric, as Brother Shupp detonatingly implies, does not the blame rest with the weaver? And so far as that goes, has anybody ever mistaken Brother Shupp for a shrinking violet?

RENTS AND PROSPERITY.

Representative Keller of Minnesota has written a letter to Mr. Hoover as chairman of the unemployment conference in which he declares that "reduction of rents alone would do more than any other single factor to restore prosperity." Citing the revelations brought out in the New York inquiry by the tenacious questioning of Samuel Untermyer, that rents in that city had been increased 100 to 400 per cent since 1915, and that those conditions are duplicated in hundreds of other cities, Mr. Keller declares that "the extortionate tribute levied by 'land hogs' amounts to billions of dollars annually, and, manifestly, must be diverted from other channels of commerce."

The accuracy of those sweeping figures may be debatable, but there can be no question as to the fact that excessive rents are not only aggravating the desperate situation of people everywhere, but are so curtailing purchasing power as to spread the blight over all business. That normal rents "would do more than any other single factor to restore prosperity," is a broad assertion, but that abnormal rents are seriously obstructing the avenues of activity is too obvious for discussion.

Nothing is to be gained, of course, by denouncing the "rent hogs." Nor is any voluntary relief to be expected from such profiteers. The question is, Can anything legally be done to curb such avarice by making such profiteering unprofitable? Mr. Keller offers a solution. He says our present methods of taxation are wrong. He proposes a land values tax by the Federal Government, with graded exemptions; a system of land taxing patterned after the New York ordinance, which has exempted improvements for a period of 10 years, and which, Keller contends, has increased building in New York wonderfully.

"Land," says Keller, who is evidently a single taxer, "is the only thing which has its use stimulated by taxation." From that premise his reasoning follows the familiar Georgian line. Even so, he cannot be dismissed as a doctrinaire, for he offers the New York ordinance and its results as a vindication of his theory.

The Keller letter is timely. It should command the consideration of the unemployment conference. It should be of interest, too, to officials, municipal and state, throughout the country. If New York has solved its rent problem St. Louis can.

ANOTHER DANGER PASSED.

The League of Nations Assembly has steered around a dangerous shoal in disposing of the Bolivian demand that the treaty of 1904 between Bolivia and Chile be taken up by the Assembly for revision.

Had the Assembly acceded to the demand—an action almost unthinkable—the way would have been opened up for a reconsideration of the settlement of every petty quarrel which might have occurred in the history of any member of the League. Nothing would more quickly break up the League than meddling with the past career of its members. Nothing would more justly open it to the charge of a super-sovereignty, nor justify nonmember nations in staying out.

In considering the case as it has the Assembly not only has saved the soul of the League but—also of vital importance—has acquitted itself with such tact as not to antagonize the author of an impossible demand.

FROM HIM THAT HATH NOT.

Though no official report has yet been made it has been learned privately that the manufacturers' committee of President Harding's unemployment conference will recommend, among other things, that industry in general adopt a "staggered hours" or "rotation" system, whereby employed workers will be suspended half their time to make way for half-time employment of the present jobless.

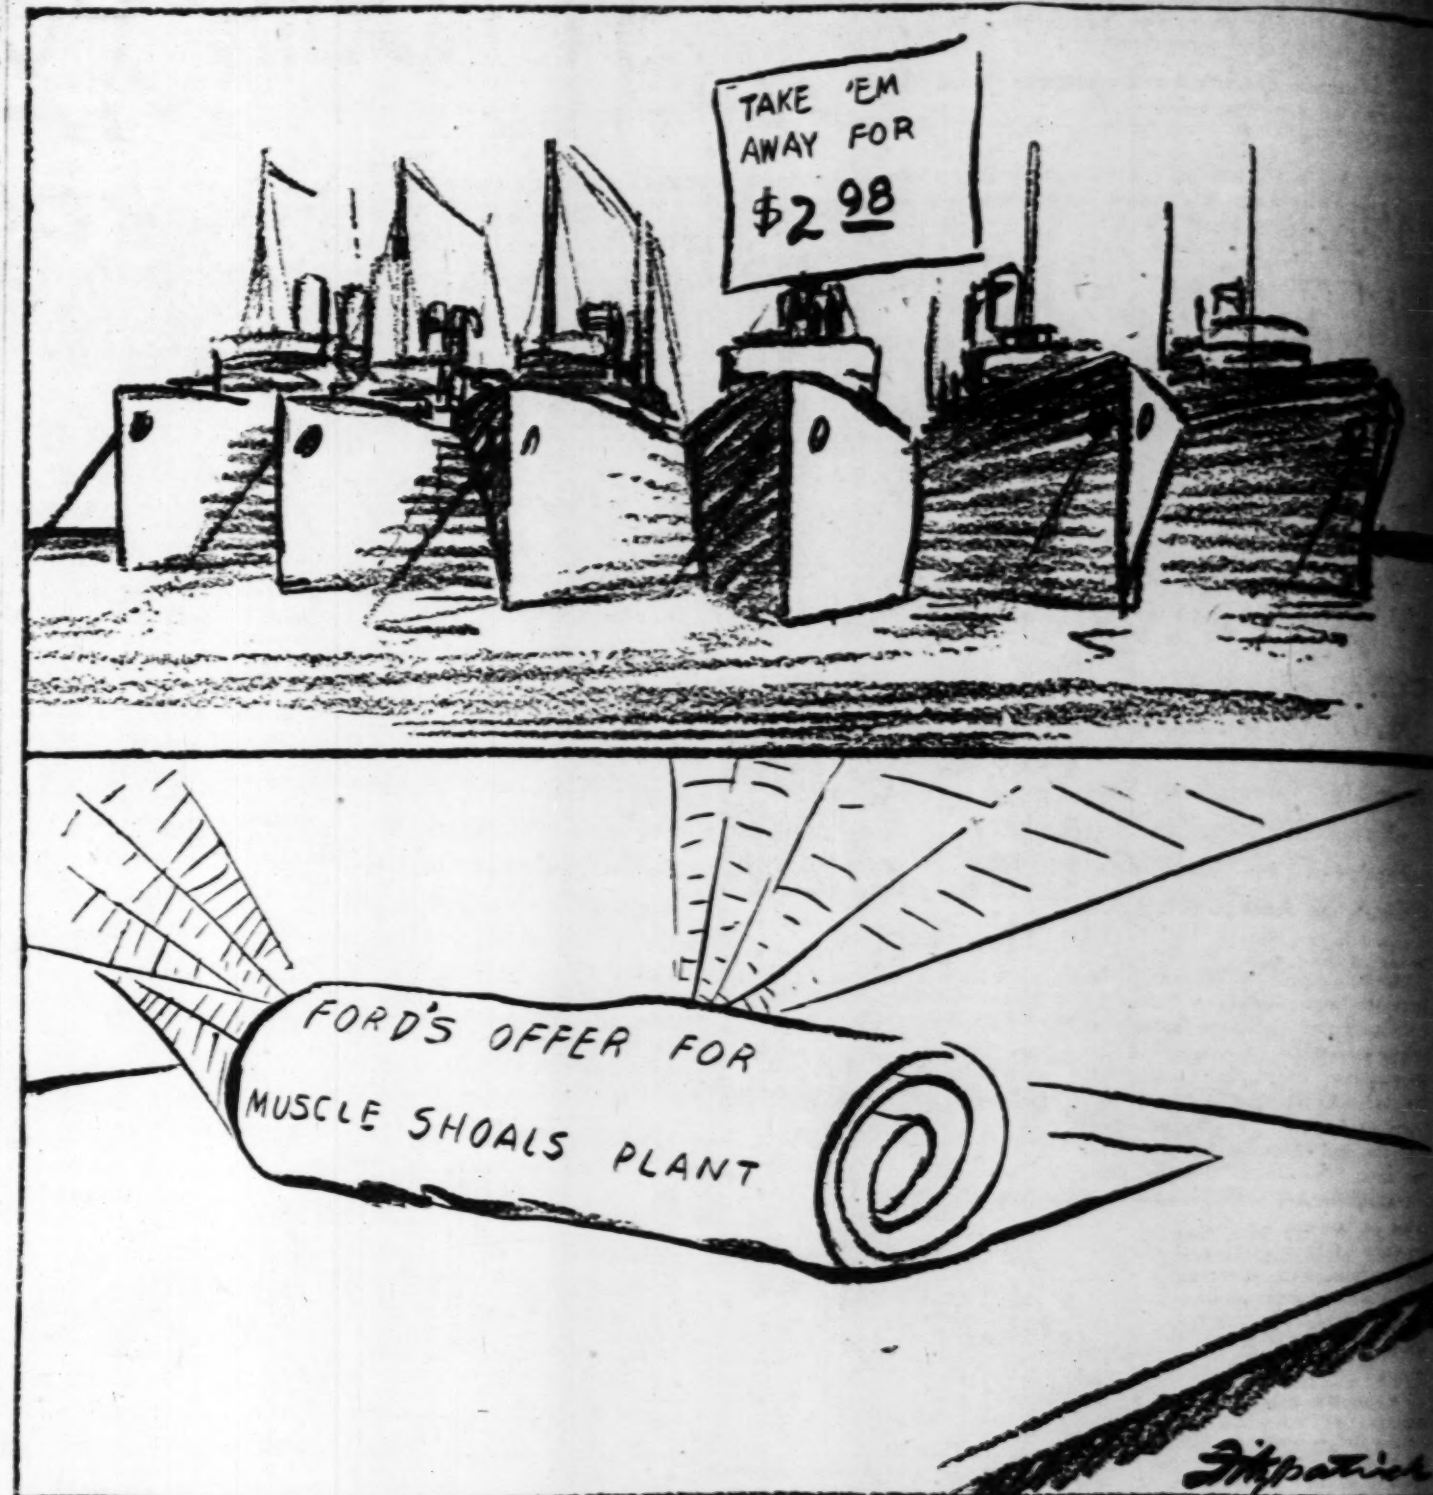

What this amounts to is that certain labor, living close if not fully up to the margin of its income, shall be forced to cut that income in two as a tax, or benevolence, to the unemployed, who at present are without income. This is a mere makeshift which would not increase production, trade or wage funds.

There are decent and plausible measures among the recommendations which, it is related, this committee will make. These should not be overlooked. They include the making up of extra stock by manufacturers in anticipation of a coming business revival and the utilization of the dull producing period to make repairs and improvements in factories.

But if there is to be a 50 per cent income tax on wage workers to support the unemployed we trust the members of the manufacturers' committee are willing to put up with a proportionate inconvenience. We note no such item, however, in their list of recommendations.

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McAdams

QUATRAINS OF HOMERUS THE BOOT-MAKER.

A sweet singer of the Ozarks, who wishes on this occasion to be anonymous, has been reading the following to a select circle of friends. He makes no apology for parodying Omar Khayyam, for if the thing has been done once or twice before, it could not have been done by a poet who had more appropriate subject matter.

WAKE! For the Volstead act has put to flight
The Chorus Stars that used to make a Night
And us along with them and faint would strike
The Secret Cellar with a Shaft of Light.

Alas, alas, for those who stand before
The Tavern shouting, "Open, then, the Door!"
You know how Little we have had to drink,
And, sadly sober, we may drink no more."

Then past the Tavern Door, not now agape, Came striding through the Gloom a portly Shape—
'Twas the Nebraska, and with look benign
He bade me taste his Unfermented Grape!

Yet since it was decreed the Door must close,
There is a solace the Initiate knows—
The Moonshine Still still lingers in the Bush,
And many a Corn-jag down the Valley goes.

A Jug of Hootch tucked underneath the Bough,
Where none may know of it save I and Thou;
Even the Lemon Extract or Bay Rum—
Oh, Wilderness were Paradise now!

Now Some there be, who when they get to sup,
With Winks and Tips decoy the "Craythur" up,
Do you discreetly do the like, until
The Waiter brings it in a Coffee Cup?

You know, my Friends, with what a brave Carouse
I made a lordly Home-brew in my House—
Stirred the all-potent Raisin in the Bowl,
And thus prepared for one more glorious Soule.

They say the Limeade and the Lemon keep
The Places where erstwhile we drank so deep;
But bold John Barleycorn, when the White Mule
Stamps o'er his Head, might seem to wake from sleep.

And Thou, who, when all Liquors men might make Didst in that Paradise devise the Jake,
That lingers on though Eden-gate be barred,
Whoe'er thou art, my gratitude must take!

And so it is, although we can't deny
That legally the Country has gone dry,
Yet seek thou for the old familiar Juice,
Methinks thou wilt discover by and by.

Yet make the most of Time that may be brief—
Ere, as some prophesy, we come to grief;
Dust in our throats, and dry as Dust to be,
Sans Home-brew, sans White Mule, and sans Relief.

The Advertising Club is putting on "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which is fast making its way as an object of public notice. Perhaps our apostrophe bounds have not labored in vain.

The drys ought not to worry so about the ineffectiveness of prohibition laws. After everybody learns to make his own liquor things will quiet down until one would not imagine there were any such laws.

The Nation, which is disposed to violence, charges the Ku Klux Klan with obscenity, which seems a pretty hard thing to say.

THE FUTURE OF CHINA AS A MANUFACTURING COUNTRY.

The future of China as a manufacturing country seems mighty bright since some of the jute bag makers of St. Louis have decided to move their industry to India, where labor is available at 15 and 18 cents a day. China has pretty nearly everything manufacturers need, and her people are notorious for working night and day at almost no pay at all. What a career is here revealed, what possibilities for the 400,000,000 people of China, and what usefulness for the great natural wealth of that celestial empire! The jute bag makers must have done some tall thinking. None of us has any too much foresight, but here is a group of men looking so far ahead that one is thrilled by the prospect. Meanwhile, people who are dependent upon the day's work for a livelihood—and we have a lot of them—cannot feel very jubilant at the turn things are taking. To see the jute bag makers pick up and go to the other side of the world rather than pay living wages is enough to rock one's faith in an economic equality amounting to a whoop out believed if possible. The tree cheers for jute bag making—one down and two when it gets to Calcutta!

Maybe some of our Midwestern farmers who hire a man to shoot blackbirds out of the corn will learn something from this: "In Southern California it is difficult to raise corn, especially the sweet variety, because of the earworm, the larva of a grayish or brownish moth. It is the same insect that causes the cotton-boll worm that does so much damage in the cotton fields. The moth lays her egg in the silks; as soon as it hatches, the larva works downward into the grain, and if not removed, destroys the entire ear, not, however, by eating, but because of the mould started in the partially eaten grains spreading to the unharmed."

The only way to save the ear is to remove the worm, an operation obviously impracticable. To perform the otherwise impracticable operation, the farmer must depend upon his friend the blackbird. As if summoned by some supernatural agency, the blackbirds invade an infected field. They set to work without delay. A bird will alight on an ear, stand as if listening, then open the husk directly over the worm, remove and eat it, then hop to another ear."

SHAM.

A GOD with eyes of opal flicker,
And feigned divinity, shouted texts and Analogues through a sobbing backwash.

The moon, like a ghostly galleon,
Was smeared with ochre and amber stain.
Looming large, the grassy land if not removed,
Among the marching clouds, it wore A certain gloss of glory, which Penetrated the turbid shadows with Wide influence; becoming a subtle Instrument to unconsciously mystify.

The dusk unveiled acceptably its rays,
Which, maturing imperceptibly, dashed
With unshakable dauntlessness through
The sprinkled stars, plunged wildly
Into a swath of tulips, then Smiled back at the mole-grass sky.

Then winds demoniac, from unknown
Distances, sang wildly contrite dirges,
And little ineffectual pleas like Haggard screams, wailed through
The querulous dark, while tawdry mule
Harmoniously filled the air with tumult.

No authentic melody was sung!
But cunningly tuned, a god
With eyes of opal flicker,
And feigned divinity, shouted texts and Analogues through a sobbing backwash.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

ENGLISH AS A WORLD LANGUAGE.

From the London Observer.

BOTH in Denmark and in Sweden English is now established as the first foreign language to be taught in the lower secondary schools, taking the place of French in Denmark and of German in Sweden. The Observer's Berlin correspondent recently wrote of the movement in Germany, which started in Bavaria and spread to Prussia, for the similar substitution of English for French, perhaps even for Latin and Greek, in the higher grade schools, and for the teaching of English in the Volk-Schule. In this case there are difficulties, and the movement seems not to have crystallized in legislation. The next important center of the new English culture is in the Near East, especially in Greece and in Greek communities. A prominent Greek of Constantinople recently said, with characteristic Greek optimism, that within three years English would have supplanted French throughout the Greek world. However, the present tendency may be affected by future politics. It is the case that English is already taught both on the mainland and in the islands, and that English grammar is now fashionable for Greek children. In the Italian secondary schools English may now be chosen, as an alternative to German. Spain, Japan and China have each sent deputations to the last year or two to England to report on the possibility of developing the English language and English ideas in their educational systems. The new Baltic States, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, and the Balkan States, especially Jugo-Slavia and Rumania, are setting up English schools and calling for English teachers.

FREIGHT CONDITIONS BETTER.

From the Railway Age.

FOR the first time in a year the railroad report a reduction in the number of bad-order freight cars. This is shown by the monthly report compiled by the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association for the period ending Sept. 1, when the number of cars needing repairs was 374,987, or 14.2 per cent of the total cars compared with 14.6 per cent, or 383,443, Aug. 15. Of the box cars, the percentage needing repairs on Sept. 1 was 17.5 per cent, as compared with 18.2 per cent on Aug. 15. There was also a reduction in the number of bad-order and damaged freight cars. The recent increase in the volume of freight traffic, particularly grain, has enabled the railroads to put more cars in service while giving the carriers some increase in revenue with which to do so, and the reduction in wages which was in effect on July 1 has also increased the volume of the roads to increase their repair force.

The bad-order car situation is not one to long particularly, for the decrease in cars needing repairs in two weeks was less than the decrease in serviceable surplus cars in one week, but it is an indication that an improvement is being shown at the end of the year.

For the first seven months of the year the railroads expended $17,000,000 for repairs of equipment, which was $11,000,000 more than they had expended on this account for the corresponding period of 1920. CHINA TELLS U. S. AND JAPAN SHE MUST BE HEARD ON YAP

Notes Inform Two Governments Consent From Pekin Must Be Obtained for Reported Agreement on Cable to Shanghai.

of national equality, says an identical note just transmitted to the American and Japanese legations by the Chinese Foreign Office.

The Chinese note maintains the Japanese system, is carrying forward a movement initiated during the administration of Dr. Wellington Koo, then Chinese Minister to Washington.

not authorize Japan to lay a cable between Shanghai and the Island of Yap unless she secures the consent of China.

The Chinese Government takes this stand on the ground that Germany's rights to this cable lapsed when China declared war, and that any other Power.

Dispatches have reported negotiations between the United States and Japan for a settlement of the Yap question "close to a successful conclusion."

Washington's Explanation of the Basis of China's Protest.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Government should join China in the laying of another cable from the island of Guam to Shanghai, thus giving direct connection between China and the United States, as at Guam the connection could be made with the American cable which runs from San Francisco to Manila, touching at Guam.

The Chinese protest has not reached the State Department.

must be greatly extended. Now they only partially cover the Mississippi Valley.

"The arrangements for the distribution between the barge line and the railroads of the revenue from through traffic are a matter of negotiation before the Interstate Commerce Commission and an income-

"His terminals are incomplete, making it impossible to formulate permanent and satisfactory arrangements with connecting railroads for the disposition of the costs of interchange.

"There has never before been a boat or barge line operating between St. Louis and New Orleans, doing business as a common carrier. The field is wholly unoccupied by private capital. Their relations with the railroad companies for joint relations with railroads. It is well known that there is a very large traffic which will move when these joint relations are fully worked out, but until they are the barge line cannot know surely what traffic is profitable and what is unprofitable.

Arguments Against Sale.

"Unless the Government continues this promising experiment navigation on the inland rivers will lapse into its former state, for private capital will wait until the extent of return on the investment is fully demonstrated.

"It is equally obvious that when these relations have been so perfected as to insure a broad field of public use and adequate revenues, not only may this service safely pass to corporate control, but many other services may be similarly transferred."

"Furthermore, no private corporation which might now take over the operation of the barge line could hope to occupy so favorable a position in these necessary negotiations as is at present enjoyed by the service as the ward of Congress.

"In proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission, a corporation organized to operate the service primarily for profit would be subject to every attack from hostile railroads which is leveled at another railroad undertaking to force its way into competitive territory."

"If large loans on the Western rivers are again to have revenues which will insure their continuance, a disinterested public project such as the existing service must continue these negotiations to completion. In no other way can there be secured the broad public interest and support necessary to the success of such negotiations.

Needs of the Service.

"The immediate need of the service is a board of directors made up of business men and sufficient additional funds to meet the other needs of the service."

"These directors, some five or six in number, should give latitude for daily planning in both directions. "In our judgment, provision should be made for a group of directors consisting of business men who would administer the affairs of the service.

Dr. Nansen appealed 'to the nations and peoples of the world to act before it was too late. Grain was rotting in the granaries of the United States, he said, and Canada alone could export enough grain to save this purpose.' It is so, let them say so. Let there be no hypocrisy."

During the debate M. Stalikovich of Yugo-Slavia asked the assembly to include in its resolution a condemnation of the bolshevik regime. He declared his country

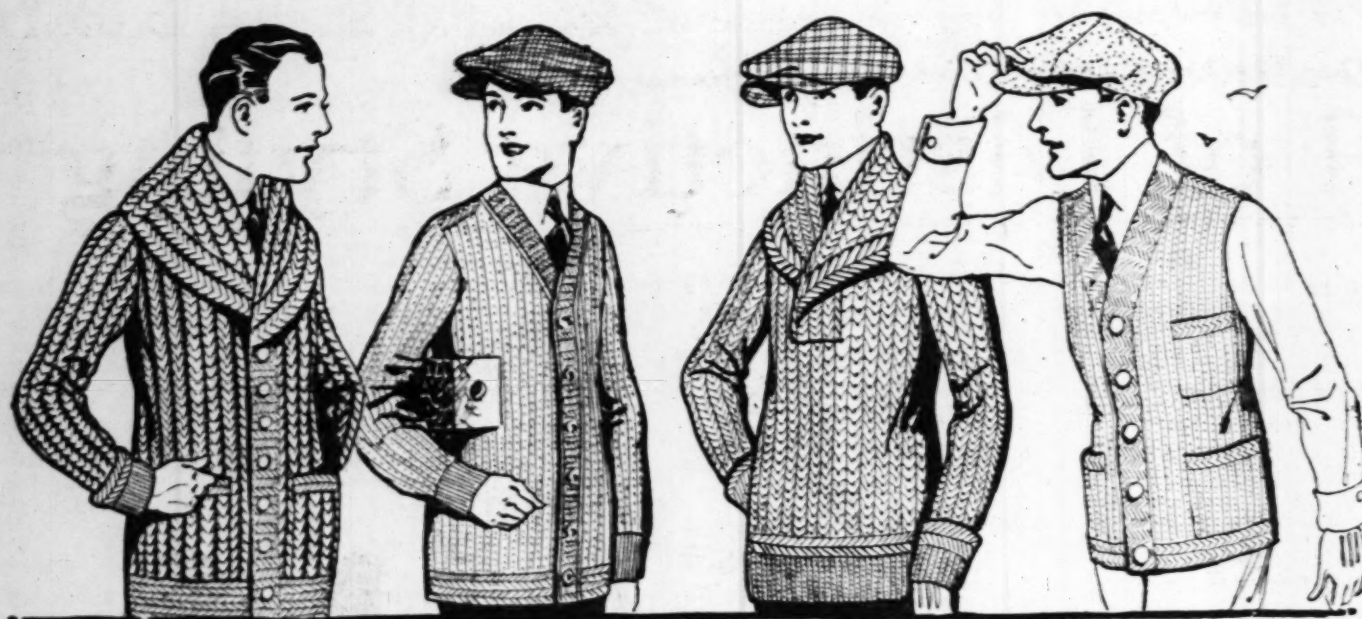

"The needed business administration must be secured pending the time the service passes naturally to corporate control."

Youth Severely Injured in Accident on Lindell Boulevard—Three Persons Hurt by Autos in Rain.

Leo Oster, 20 years old, of 4210 Sarpy avenue, chauffeur of a truck for a cleaning and dyeing company, suffered concussion of the brain and serious internal injuries at 5:20 P. M. yesterday when his truck was overturned in collision with an automobile driven by Saul Ellman, 19, son of David Ellman of 6025 Pershing avenue, at Newstead avenue and Lindell boulevard. Oster was taken to St. John's Hospital. Ellman was arrested. Oster was driving the truck south on Newstead avenue and Ellman was proceeding west on Lindell when, according to witnesses, the Ellman machine struck the truck at the rear wheel and turned it over.

Lawrence Stiegler, 54, and Mrs. Kate Breidenbach, 47, a widow, both of 3323 Illinois avenue, carrying an umbrella at 8:30 P. Mrs. Breidenbach suffered fractures of two ribs and the left leg. Stiegler suffered bruises on the hips and legs. Wehrenberg was making a turn from Cherokee street into Ohio avenue.

Miss Pauline Harty, 22, of 16 South Spring avenue, suffered concussion of the brain and a scalp wound at 5:45 P. M. when knocked down by an automobile driven by Oliver Cruise of 3946A North Florissant avenue at Ninth and Chestnut streets. Rupert Hughes' Amazing Novel of Movie-land

"Souls For Sale"

From the very beginning this master novel thrills. It assures one of the absorbing interest this story will create. Get a copy of the October Red Book Magazine and read about the beginning of Remember Steddon's strange career.

Frank—But True

No one but Rupert Hughes could portray so perfectly the soul-raking problems of a village girl who ultimately climbed to the peak of success in movie-land.

For no man knows so well the inner life 'midst California's film studios, as Rupert Hughes.

The temptations that beset Remember Steddon, the queer fantasies of Fate, and the final climax all keep one interested from the very first.

Yet all is handled so delicately and so humanly that one can hardly keep from feeling that the story is a true biography of some famous movie star we all know.

Intimate Adventures

The October issue of The Red Book Magazine contains the first installment, in elaborated synopsis, together with the second installment.

You can begin this fascinating story and follow it through. The September issue sold out quickly. So we advise getting your copy at once of the October issue.

"Souls for Sale" is bound to be one of the most discussed novels of the year. For in addition to being a revelation of life in movie-land, it brings out anew that thousand years' discussion of: Can Good Come Out of Evil—Can Right Emerge from Wrong?

Don't miss this master novel. Begin it at once—so you won't have to wait for it to come out months later in book form.

We are now announcing our

Second Monthly Title Contest

This one for October—Watch for November

Last month we offered $5,100 in prizes for the best titles submitted for a story in the September issue of The Red Book Magazine. Thousands of answers have been received from all parts of the country. The prizewinners will be announced in the November issue of The Red Book Magazine. Money will be paid to prizewinners October 1st.

Here's another chance for you. We are again offering

$5100 in Cash Prizes

There is a story in the October issue of The Red Book Magazine called "And That's That." The Editors have never been quite satisfied with this title.

Can you think of a better one? For the best 1000 titles submitted, we will pay $5 each. For the best one of them all, we will pay $100.

We'd like to satisfy ourselves on a policy of naming stories. And we are willing to pay our readers for this help. It will take only a few minutes of your time and a test of your imagination.

(Note: In case that more than one person submits the title chosen as best, we will pay $100 to each of the winners.)

This Is the Story:

Thornton Morse, flitted by Eulalie, who becomes the rich Mrs. Weston. Finds greater love in his own marriage with Helen.

But the fascinating Eulalie returns from abroad and out of bravado carries on a flirtation with Thornton which shocks the town. Then begins a terrific battle of wits between two women.

The climax of intrigue comes after a dramatic scene in which Helen overhears a part of a conversation between Eulalie and Thornton. Before it can be explained, he becomes desperately ill—in his delicious ravings he denounces Eulalie and seeks the pardon of Helen. His doctor knows that only one thing will save him. This famous specialist induces Eulalie to come to the bedside. Thornton's life is saved by this psychological treatment—she attains his delicious desire of denouncing Eulalie, but at a frightful cost to her. And Helen, who has heartbreakingly consented to the emergency, yet hating the idea of her husband's life being saved by "the other woman," understands for the first time the real meaning of the clandestine conversation—which could have been interpreted two ways.

So Easy to Earn

Merely submit what you consider a better title by letter or by post card—writing your name and address at the top. Only one title can be submitted by each person. To receive consideration, it must be received in our office by October 20th, 1921. Checks will be mailed November 1st to successful contestants, whose names will be published in the December issue of The Red Book Magazine.

Address all titles to Title Editor, 26B, The Red Book Magazine 36 S. State Street, Chicago.

CIVIL WAR CAVALRYMEN GATHER AT SPRINGFIELD

Veterans of Missouri Regiment,
Now Reduced to 50 Survivors,
Talk Over Events of Sixties.

By the Associated Press
SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The gathering of 25 Civil War veterans here recently served to recall the days of the war in Missouri and the part that Missouri played in the conflict. The occasion was the annual reunion of the Sixth Cavalry, Missouri Volunteers, of whom there are not more than 50 survivors. For more than 30 years the old veterans have gathered together to talk over the days of the early war, and each year have found their number. Fewer some being removed by death and others being unable to attend.

The old soldiers gathered from Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and other nearby states. The youngest member of the group, who was J. R. Tarrant of Springfield, the commander of the reunion, is 76 years old. The veterans did not care to have a set program for their reunion. The principal part of the two-day gathering consisted of talking over old times, renewing friendships and singing old-time songs. The veterans also held memorial services in honor of the four or five of their group who have died since their gathering last year.

The Sixth Cavalry of Missouri Volunteers won an enviable reputation among the State's troops, according to early authorities. Companies A and D of the regiment were organized at Dadeville in 1861 as State troops, and as such took part in the battle of Wilson Creek, Aug. 10, 1861, which was one of Missouri's most historic battles.

These troops later were merged with Companies C and E, recruited at Sedalia, and the body was named Sixth Cavalry, Missouri Volunteers.

This regiment, with a total strength of 90, later encountered the Confederate troops at Springfield on Feb. 14, 1862, winning the encounter and pursuing the Confederates to Paducah, Ark., where another encounter took place. The regiment served under Gen. Franz Sigel and Curtis on the frontier, and fought at Prairie Grove and Cape Girardeau, and later at Red River, La., and Shreveport.

Soldier Buried in San Antonio.
The funeral of Sergt. Philip Fiocher of the Third Cavalry, who died from gas poisoning Jan. 2, 1918, and who was the son of Mrs. Mary Pretz of 1913 Congress street, was held last Saturday in San Antonio, Tex. He was a Spanish War veteran, with a record of service in the Philippines. He was wounded in 1914 by a Mexican smuggler on the border. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elise Fiocher, and three step-daughters, living in San Antonio, and by three brothers and two sisters in St. Louis.

BOY SUES TO HAVE SET ASIDE DIVORCE GRANTED TO MOTHER

Alleges Decree Was Obtained in Effort to Get Better Settlement of Estate.

OTTAWA, Ill.—Court action, believed to be without a precedent in Central Illinois, was begun in the La Salle County Circuit Court by Delmar Bosseman, 19 years old, asking that a divorce granted to his mother be annulled in order that his parents may be reunited.

The father of the youthful litigant is Walter Bosseman who has served several terms as Mayor of Utica. Mrs. Bosseman is the daughter of the late Charles Carey, one of the wealthiest residents of Utica, who operated a cement plant. The Bosseman were married in 1908. Aug. 24, 1930, Mrs. Bosseman filed a suit for divorce, alleging cruelty. She obtained a decree six weeks later.

The declaration filed by the son alleges that the wife persuaded the husband not to oppose the suit for divorce nor to defend the charges she filed against him. The lad declares that his father was never cruel to his mother and that his mother procured the divorce in the hope of obtaining a better settlement from her father's estate than would have been the case had the legal separation not been obtained. The boy further alleges that his parents lived together from the time the suit was filed until the decree was granted and that for a year afterward the parents operated a moving picture theater which they jointly owned. An exhibit filed with the suit of the child is a copy of the business settlement agreed to by his parents when the decree was granted. Under this agreement, the wife receives the husband's insurance, policies, his automobile and other personal property, while he receives $6000 from the wife when her mother dies and the daughter inherits the latter's property. Bruno Bosseman, a brother of the husband, is acting as next friend of the child in the suit just filed.

3797 VETERANS WHO GO TO LAND DRAWING UNSUCCESSFUL

WASHINGTON.—"Indifference bordering on criminal negligence" characterized treatment of service men of the world war who flocked to Torrington, Wyo., Sept. 2 to settle on newly opened Government land, the American Legion's national legislative committee declared here following its study and report of the land drawing scheme.

For every man who received a farm, 200 were turned away empty-handed and disappointed, the report points out. Almost 4000 former soldiers, sailors and marines, wounded and disabled men among them, went from 36 states of the Union to try for the 363 Government farms. To get their names in the drawing pot, the young men put up half a million dollars in cash deposits. Most of the half million went back into the pockets of the 3797 who were not lucky enough to get a farm. Gov. Carey of Wyoming drew the first card. The winner was a soldier from Pennsylvania, wounded overseas.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

FREE A book, "Scientific Studies of Kitchen Work," giving the story of the world's record time and step savings that the Napanee brings to women. These tests were made under Mr. Harrington Emerson's direction. Mr. Emerson is a member of the Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry, founded by Mr. Herbert Hoover. Ask us for this important book.

A Statement by Mr. Harrington Emerson

It is clear from our scientific studies that the striking savings of the Napanee Dutch Kitchen are along three distinct lines:

- 1-Saving of effort, fatigue elimination.
- 2-Saving of time.
- 3-Standardization of work.

The saving of energy, shown by the large reduction in the number of steps, is very striking. By accurate quantitative measurement, three-quarters of this physical exertion is saved. It is reduced to one-quarter.

Harrington Emerson

Noting distance walked as shown by pedometer after getting a meal

Saving 509 Steps Getting Lunch is a Part of the National Demonstration of the Napanee Dutch Kitchenet

Will you save 1,592 wearisome steps every day in getting three meals? Will you end the terrible strain of kitchen work on your health and energy?

You can do it easily. This is the most important announcement ever made to housewives. It is a part of a national demonstration now going on everywhere.

Thousands were spent on scientific time and motion studies of the preparation of meals in an average kitchen. These experiments were made under direction of Mr. Harrington Emerson, foremost efficiency engineer, and two famous Domestic Scientists.

Each meal was prepared first without a Napanee Dutch Kitchenet; then with the use of a Napanee. Stop watches recorded the time of each individual operation in the preparation of each meal. Pedometers registered every step taken.

By these scientific studies we learned the exhausting effort that kitchen work demands. We learned how to prevent it. We made astounding discoveries.

521 steps instead of 2,113

We found it took 2,113 steps to get three simple meals without a Napanee. It took the same operators only 521 steps to get the same meals in the same kitchen with a Napanee.

Thus 1,592 wearisome steps were saved. That number out of 2,113! It was amazing. We could hardly believe it.

But Mr. Emerson repeated each individual operation in getting each meal with a different operator to check the accuracy of his results. The proof couldn't be doubted.

Such astounding savings are due to the scientific design of the Napanee and its new and better conveniences. Their value is beyond measure to the hosts of women who end each day distressed by fatigue.

Come today and see the Napanee's scientific superiorities. Learn all the relief the Napanee's amazing value can give you, as women all over America are learning it.

ST. JOSEPH RACE MEETING RESULTS IN GRAFT INQUIRY

Special Grand Jury Summoned Following Charge That Festival Association Secretary Offered Bribe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—Whether certain officials of the St. Joseph Race Meeting were guilty of accepting bribes in connection with gambling during the St. Joseph fall festival and races the week of Oct. 5 will be investigated by a special grand jury summoned to meet here next Wednesday.

The festival, an annual event arranged by St. Joseph business men, is regarded as a civic enterprise. Charges of corruption in its direction have brought criticism of officers of the Civic Festival Association.

Since first rumors of bribery were started the day following the close of the festival, new developments have followed in rapid succession. The Police Board has held meetings to consider the charges, the Prosecuting Attorney's office has been busy issuing informations and summoning witnesses, directors of the association have conferred repeatedly and finally Judge W. H. Uts of the Circuit Court has ordered the Coroner to select a grand jury to convene next Wednesday to hear testimony in the case.

In ordering the Coroner rather than the Sheriff to draw the jury, an act not according to the usual procedure, Judge Uts explained the Coroner was called upon because Sheriff W. H. Kueker will be a witness before the grand jury.

$300 Offer Reported.
Investigations of the grand jury will largely concern Sheriff Kueker's statement to the Police Commissioners that $300 was placed in his hands by Harry Becker, secretary of the Festival Association (a paid official), with instructions that he deliver it to Lewis F. Randolph, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney. Kueker said the money was returned to Becker.

All reports of gambling at the races also will be investigated by the grand jury at Judge Uts's order. One report to the effect that a St. Joseph man was paid $1500 for a gambling concession conducted under the grand stand will receive special attention. It has been said also that the jury will be instructed to return indictments against those who conducted the gambling and those who gave permission for it, and that misdemeanor charges will be made against persons known to have gambled at the races.

The first investigation of the alleged bribery was made by the Police Board when Sheriff Kueker told his story of being given the money. He stated that Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Randolph approached him at Lake Contrary Park, where the races were held, and instructed him not to permit bookmakers to operate. To which Kueker replied that warrants would be necessary before arrests could be made. Randolph then went to his office to procure warrants, Kueker said.

Denies Demanding Money.
According to Kueker he talked to Lee Brown, who had the bookmaking concession, and instructed him not to operate. A conference then was held with several festival association officials. It is said, after which Kueker claims to have been given the $300 by Becker, the secretary of the association. Kueker said that he gave it back to Becker the following day.

Randolph issued a statement after Kueker had testified before the police commissioners, stating that he neither demanded nor received any money. He declared that he permitted gambling when he learned it had the endorsement of the officers and directors of the association.

The directors of the association also issued a statement to the board as follows:

"No officer or director of the Civic Festival Association paid one cent to any county official, or authorized anybody to pay one cent to any county official, or knew any money was to be paid to any county official. If anything of that kind was done, the officers and directors of the association think the facts should be fully investigated by the proper authorities. We would not for an instant condone any grafting by any public official in this community."

On the following day Randolph filed felony complaints against the officers and directors of the association and warrants were issued charging that the officers and directors permitted bookmaking on premises leased by them at Lake Contrary.

The men named were John J. Goodrich, president of the association; A. H. Ueberrhein, vice president; B. G. Voorhes, secretary; Harry E. Wyatt, treasurer; Edwin L. Morris, Clarence U. Philleary, A. H. Ehrlich, John Wunderlich, E. J. Townsend and F. R. Castile.

These warrants were issued by Randolph independent of Prosecuting Attorney Perry A. Brubaker, who was out of the city at the time of the festival and whose investigation began. Brubaker talked with Judge Uts upon his return and arranged for the special grand jury.

When the cases against the directors came up in Justice of the Peace Wilson's court for preliminary hearing Brubaker dismissed them. This action was taken over the protest of his assistant.

In dismissing the cases Brubaker said he did so because he did not wish to hinder the work of the grand jury before whom the cases would be presented. At the same time Brubaker announced that he would handle the cases personally.

It is expected that Brubaker will call his assistant as the first witness when the grand jury convenes.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

BOY SAVES $12,000 FOR MAN WHO GIVES HIM RIDE

Puts Money in Bank for Safekeeping When Driver of Auto Fights Man in Street.
ATLANTIC CITY.—"Hey, want a ride?" shouted George Crory, who was on his way to a bank, to a small boy. That act of kindness was to save McCrory $12,000 in the course of the next few minutes.
In traveling along Atlantic avenue McCrory's machine was hit by a car driven by Alexander Lazar. Angered at Lazar, McCrory leaped from his automobile, forgetting all about the money. A thrilling fist fight followed, viewed by a large crowd. The fight ended with McCrory and Lazar both going to police headquarters.
In putting up bail McCrory suddenly remembered he had forgotten all about a bag containing $12,000 in cash which he had been taking in his car to a bank. He also remembered he had left the door of his automobile open when he made for Lazar. He went back to his automobile and found the money gone; gone for good, he thought. But across the street, in another bank he finally traced the $12,000. The boy, said he left it there for safekeeping after two strangers had tried to make off with it.

SCIENTIFIC TESTS FOR ALL DELINQUENT NEBRASKA CHILDREN

Board Will Determine to Which of 15 Institutions Each Juvenile Prisoner Shall Go.
LINCOLN, Neb.—Under a new law that has just become effective every child found delinquent or incorrigible in Nebraska juvenile courts will have to run the gamut of a board of scientists before it is determined into which of the 15 State institutions it shall be sent. One group will examine it for physical faults, vision, hearing and the like; another will measure its mind in order to determine its mental age; another will report on what it found about the environments in which the child was brought up, and still another will examine it for nervous disorders.
A clinical psychologist will determine from these results where the necessary treatment is to be found among the State institutions. This legislation was the result of a showing that because of mental defects all the institutions are crowded with wards of the State and the increase in expense is appalling.

Pikers Shaping Up Nicely; Lack Of Linemen Felt

Good Eleven Lacking Reserve Strength Will Face Miners Here Tomorrow.

An eleven combining weight and speed will be exhibited at Francis Field tomorrow afternoon when Coach George Rider's Pikeaway warriors play their first game of the 1921 season with the much-heralded Missouri School of Mines team from Rolla. The opening whistle will sound at 3 o'clock.

The visitors are believed to own one of the strongest aggregations the school has ever assembled and advance reports from down-state have it that many undergraduates are making the trip here in anticipation of a victory.

The Pikers have taken seriously all reports of their rivals' strength and during the past week have been laboring strenuously. Yesterday's practice, which lasted until long after dark, was marked by intense and hard-fought scrimmages which have characterized the Pikeaway workouts since last Saturday's indifferent showing against the Freshman-Alumni team.

The physical aspect of the hill-top eleven is all that could be desired. Coach Rider today said that the line will average between 180 and 195 pounds, while the backfield quartet will tip the beams at approximately 160 pounds.

Backfield Appears Good.

It appears that of the two divisions the backfield presents the better front. Young fullback on last year's freshman eleven, is sure to fill that position tomorrow. His lack of experience is betrayed in occasional lapses, but he can hit the line, is fast and fights hard all the way. O'Brien and Claypool will probably see action as halfbacks. O'Brien, a track star who looked good in practice last year before being declared ineligible, should prove a great asset in skirting the ends, while Claypool is a good runner. Mathes, utility halfback last year, is almost sure to play tomorrow. Thumser and Tommy Thompson will probably divide time as quarterbacks, with Thumser playing at a halfback when not calling signals. "Baldy" has improved greatly in his knowledge of football tactics, can kick and pass and is probably the best open field runner on the squad to boot.

Forwards Are Too Slow.

The line, while having sufficient heft, has yet to overcome a certain amount of sluggishness. Of last year's linemen, Capt. Krahe, tackle; Shanley, end; Hafner, center, and Kurus, guard, are back. Weinel of the 1919 team, has returned and will play at guard; Kling and Schumann, graduates of the "fresh" eleven, will be available at end, with the latter's left and aggressiveness making him the choice. Long is sure to make his debut at tackle and is expected to play havoc with the Miner forwards. Thus tomorrow's opening lineup, which Coach Rider will not officially announce until playing time, will logically be: Shanley and Schumann, ends; Capt. Krahe and Long, tackles; Kurus and Weinel, guards; Hafner, center; Young, fullback; the choice of Mathes, O'Brien, Claypool and Thumser for halfbacks; and Thumser and Thompson, quarter.

Coach Rider finds himself this year in the undrained situation of having only one first-string utility lineman, Denny of the 1920 squad. This, more than anything else, will prove a serious handicap during the season. Washington's schedule includes such opponents as Kansas, Aggie, Tulane, Oklahoma and Missouri games sure to require reserve talent. It is in this connection that the Pikers will miss Singleton, Hausladen and Cohen, veteran linemen, who are not playing football this year.

CONFIDENT MINERS DUE HERE TONIGHT; EXPECT TO DEFEAT WASHINGTON

ROLLA, Mo., Sept. 29.—The Rolla Miners ended football practice for the Washington game yesterday. Everyone was in prime condition and the squad of 16 men will leave Rolla this afternoon.

Capt. Wendell, tackle, has a chipped ankle bone and cannot play. McBride, halfback, whose injury caused him to be away from practice for a week, will play in a portion of the game. Sutton, halfback, an excellent punter, has contracted a slight illness and will not make the trip.

The loss of these three men will weaken the Miner eleven. Much new material will be in the line-up, as the Freshman class has turned out some good players. The team will average 175 pounds. The eleven is not a new team, but an aggregation of eleven fighting men.

Owens, a St. Louis boy, who starred at half, will be in the lineup to start the game for the Miners. Coach McCune plans to start Nolan, a Freshman, at quarter. He also intends to start Hausladen at full and Anderson at half—two new men at Rolla.

The Miners' line should be strong, with five letter men available to start the game.

Indications are the contest will be a hard fight, but a victory for the Miners.

The probable lineup for the Miners: Left end, Gray; left tackle, Holt; left guard, Christian; center, Zeller; right guard, Parkhurst; right tackle, Arnold; right end, Buck; quarter, Nolan; left halfback, right halfback, Anderson; fullback, Hausladen.

Every Woman Is Beautiful to Some Man

Charles Dana Gibson Does Not Agree With Chicago Man That 90 Per Cent Are Homely.

By FAY STEVENSON.

NINETY per cent of the women are homely—that is, if you are able to detect it. Prof. Carl H. Wernitz, the Chicago beauty expert of the Academy of Fine Arts. And then he elaborated on their excuse for wearing low necks and short skirts by adding: "A lot of women have fooled the men for a long time. A woman who wears extremely short skirts and low-cut gowns is acknowledging she cannot win the attention of mankind by less startling means."

But to the rescue comes Charles Dana Gibson, with all his line of beautiful girls and his charming feminine sketches back of him.

"What! Ninety per cent of the women are homely?" asked Mr. Gibson. "Well, (and he actually said 'by gum'), 'what right has anybody to make that statement? Why, everybody is somebody's darling and there isn't a woman on earth who doesn't look pretty to someone."

"As far as naming any per cent on homely women, why not put one on man?" asked Gibson. "But on the other hand, there isn't a man on earth who is so homely that he doesn't have some redeeming quality for some mother, wife or sweetheart."

"You take a peep at the young girls and men on the park benches," continued Gibson, "and you ask the average youth sitting beside these girls who is the prettiest woman in the world and he'll say: 'Here she is, right beside me.' And he means it. Probably she would be a fright to some other fellow, but to him she personifies beauty and all the feminine charms in the world."

"Then it is simply the old story of the African admiring the flat-nosed type, the Persian his Oriental woman, and the Anglo-Saxon the fair-haired, blue-eyed beauty?" I suggested.

"It is simply the fact that every woman is blessed with some charm, beautiful hair, good teeth, an interesting complexion or some particular point of beauty, and it takes a particular man to admire it. There is always some man who is bound to admire a girl and make her his especial type of beauty."

"Do you think women wear short skirts and low-cut gowns to attract the attention of men?" I asked Gibson.

"I think that is a matter of style," replied the artist. "Every woman should be in style and it is right for her to look her best. A short or long skirt, a high or low cut blouse is a matter of her fashion book and her own desire to look her very best."

Both Prof. Carl Wernitz and Gibson believe that it is important for a woman to appreciate her personal appearance and make the most of it on all occasions. Only Prof. Wernitz seems to believe that 90 per cent of the women are homely. He believes that it is important for a woman to appreciate her personal appearance and make the most of it on all occasions.

"Mystery is woman's chief power," says Prof. Wernitz. "Every woman should create a pleasing impression by her dress, her manner, her speech and her smile. A woman is just like a house to be shingled—you have to have something which will harmonize with the structure; you have to get artistic result somehow. Each woman must dress so as to create the impression of beauty. It is worth while for her to use her skill because it is more important for a woman to be beautiful than to make great achievements in business, literature or science."

"Being beautiful means a great deal to a woman in any line of business," said Gibson. "Although I would not want to go so far as to say it is more important for a woman to be beautiful than to make great achievements in business, literature or science. Beauty, or looking one's best, merely helps, and every woman is justified in spending much time and thought upon her personal appearance."

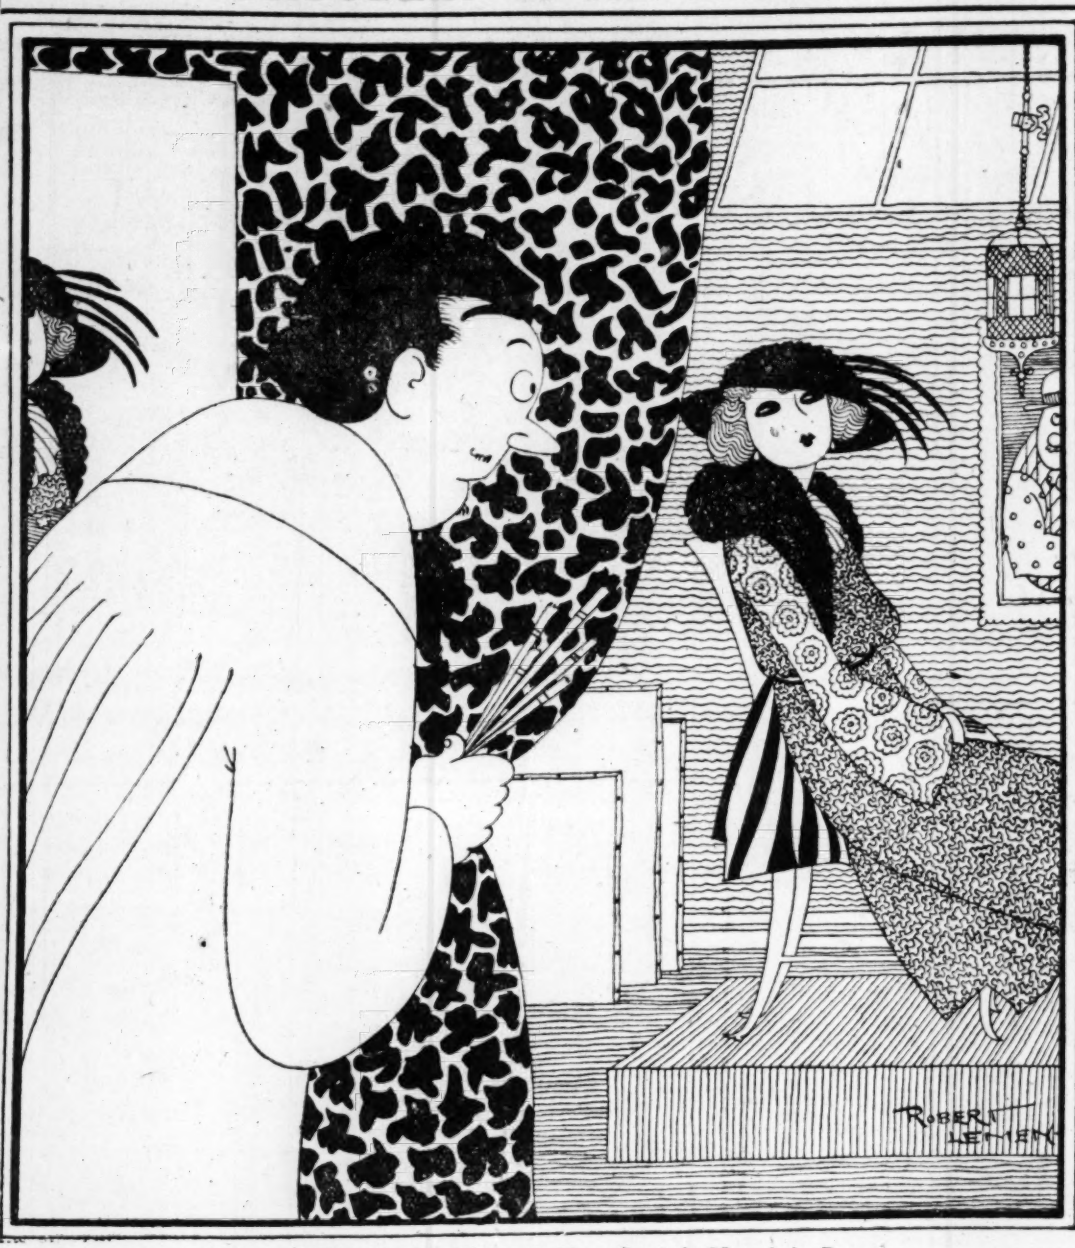

"Even if she has to resort to beauty creams, rouges, latest styles and everything?" I asked.

"Yes, no matter what she has to resort to, by gum! boyishly continued Gibson. "And, as far as beauty is concerned, a woman one may term a freak may be a striking beauty to another."

TROUBLES OF AN ARTIST

The Only Way He Could Catch Mrs. Gushe's Mouth in Repose.

PLAYING SAFE—By Henry C. Rowland

A Story in Three Installments

(Copyright, 1921.)

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

"I'd better take my medicine and play safe," she told herself with a sort of bitter scorn. "I've no talents, no business ability, no coquetry, no faculty for getting something for nothing. The first thing I know I'll be developing into a hard, acrimonious old maid. Better play safe like my self-satisfied neighbor."

She sent the porter for a sandwich and a glass of milk, then waited in another seat for him to make up her berth. Inside it with the curtains drawn she felt as though buried alive in a midst of cotton not far removed from the infernal regions. Nervous depression added to the intensity of her bodily discomfort. The perspiration ran from her in little rivulets, but without the agreeable sense of depletion to be found in a Turkish bath.

"I'll be a sudden mess by morning if I lie through this fearful night," she reflected on this final torture. It was difficult to understand the reason for such extra discomfort. The porter had assured the protesting passengers that all the ventilators were open, even to the screened apertures of the windows. That of Claire was open but the air which filtered through it was hot and oppressive.

As she lay there unable to sleep, she reflected on this final torture. It was difficult to understand the reason for such extra discomfort. The porter had assured the protesting passengers that all the ventilators were open, even to the screened apertures of the windows. That of Claire was open but the air which filtered through it was hot and oppressive.

Presently she drifted into an untroubled sleep, but was awakened toward midnight by what seemed to be a crashing and battering of the car and a fine spray upon her face.

She discovered then that the train appeared to be caught up in a cyclone, while the roar upon the roof of the car was as though it were passing under a cataract. The porter was hurrying closing the windows and ventilators and the train had slowed its speed.

"Now," thought Claire, "we shall quickly suffocate and that will be an end of it." She almost regretted when the porter requested permission to close her own and instead of the cooling spray there was the sudden smell of wet bedding.

"Some cyclone, ma'am," said the negro. "I reckon we done pitched into a cloudburst."

Claire presently dropped off again, but this time her sleep was fraught with troubled dreams. She thought that she was aboard a ship which had broken down and was drifting toward a maelstrom. Then suddenly it reached the brink of it and she felt it plunge down into the vortex.

"All is over," thought Claire with a sort of resigned relief, and at that moment there came a most terrific sense of falling accompanied by a rending, splitting sound and culminating in an appalling crash.

Claire reached for her light, only to find it extinct. She thrust up the curtain of her window but the darkness without was impenetrable and there seemed to be a flood pouring down the glass. She was imprisoned in a triangular space and immediately guessed that the chains supporting the upper berth had parted and that it had fallen to leave an aperture of not more than six inches on the side of the car. Through this she shied wildly for help.

"One minute," shouted a vibrant voice. "I'll get you out."

The cries and screams grew fainter, and from a little distance came a smothered splashing sound. She heard the man beside her roaring for help to raise the berth, which had jammed, but there was no response. Then presently, as he struggled, it seemed to yield.

"Lie on your back and shove straight up with your arms when I count three," he said. Claire obeyed and they seemed to gain two or three inches.

"It's jammed against the partition," he panted. "Don't be frightened. I'll get you out."

She found herself suddenly alone. There were no more sounds of human presence, nor crushing fabrics, but a torrent of water seemed cascading over the roof of the car as a river flows over a dam, with swirling, sucking gurgles. Then, to her horror, Claire felt a warm trickling about her, and thrusting her arm through the aperture felt the flood up to the very edge of her berth.

Those few terrible seconds she was able to realize what had happened. There had been a cloud-burst and a low trestle crossing some torrential river bed, normally dry at that season, had been washed out and given way. And here she was imprisoned, probably the only one in the car to be thus helpless, as otherwise there must have been cries for help.

He accomplished this and taking five of the partitions he laid them in the water one on top of the other beside the downstream edge of the platform, and as he did so there came another ominous shudder and the car careened slightly. Stephen went down the steps and set his value on the improvised raft.

"Come on," said he to Claire. "Lie halfway across this thing and we'll cast off. Hurry. The car's apt to topple over at any minute."

Claire followed his instructions and a moment later they were swirling away through the ink murk, partly submerged, but floated easily by the wood partitions. The water was warm as new milk and about as thick, though this was not immediately discoverable. As the bed of the stream was smooth there were no waves, but occasionally they were caught in a whirlpool and twisted about from side to side.

"We ought to wash ashore pretty soon," said Stephen; "that is, if we don't get floated out into the Arkansas. But even in that case we ought to land somewhere in time for breakfast."

Claire began to laugh, not hysterically, but from the absurdity of their situation. It seemed a fitting end to her disastrous trip, to be floating down through the pitchy darkness with nothing left her but a suit of silk pajamas, a very thin and torn. While opposite her was a young man similarly clad and chained to a bag of treasure which was rightfully hers and which he had been at such pains to safeguard.

"What do you think now of playing safe?" she asked.

"There's no such thing. I've hung forward platform he paused with an exclamation of dismay.

"Good Lord! The rest of the train is gone."

"Into the river?" Claire asked tremulously.

"I don't think so. He peered out into the murk. 'It's not very deep and we could see it if it had. We were moving very slowly when the side of the trestle gave way. This car is on the track. The passengers from our must have gone through the car ahead of this when they uncoupled the train and went on.'

The black water was swirling past, two feet deep over the platform, while the rain was crashing down in solid sheets. Then as they stood there a shudder seemed to shake the car and it lurched over at a greater angle.

"We've got to get out of this and quick," said Stephen. "The trestle is apt to go at any moment, or our car might roll over and drag this one after it. We're shipwrecked in Arkansas. But we've got to have a raft. Wait a moment."

He plunged into the oblivion of the car and, above the crash of the rain and the gurgling sounds of the torrent, Claire heard the clattering and banging as of loose planks. Lacking the resourcefulness of her rescuer, she could not imagine what he hoped to find as material for a raft in a sleeping car. But she was enlightened when a few minutes later Stephen emerged and propped in the doorway what sounded like a heap of planks.

INDIA RELISH

TWO quarts green tomatoes, one small head cabbage, six medium-sized onions, one tablespoonful dry mustard, one cup mustard seed, one teaspoonful celery seed, one cup sugar, three-fourths cup salt, two cups vinegar, 12 green peppers. Chop fine the green tomatoes, cabbage, onions and green peppers. Sprinkle over with the salt, put in a cool place in a colander for a night. In the morning drain well and put in a kettle, add the mustard seed, celery seed, sugar, and vinegar. Boil for five minutes. Remove, and add the dry mustard mixed in one tablespoonful vinegar. Mix thoroughly and pack away in glass jars. Cover with paraffin.

It is estimated that there are nearly 20,000,000 spinsters in America.

onto it so far, though," and he rapped the panel beneath him with his knuckles.

"Well, I don't begrudge it to you, now. You'll have to come from a very noisy door. What if you hadn't been able to get me out?"

"Then I'd have kept you company. There's no good in hating one's self for one's own rescue. His hand was close to hers. Claire laid hers on the back of it for a moment with a sudden impulsive pressure. "Thank you," said she.

The pressure was returned and for several moments they drifted on in silence. Then Stephen said: "This is the first time I've been comfortably cold since my morning tub, and that was fairly lukewarm. Not getting chilled, are you?"

"Not a bit. It's very refreshing."

"The daylight can't be far off," said Stephen; "then we can make a landfall and lay a course for somewhere."

The rain stopped suddenly as though somebody had turned off the faucet of the shower and the silence struck upon them with a sort of shock. There was no noise beyond the low murmuring voice of the flood, a sort of deep, musical diapason. Then presently the heavy clouds seemed to roll up at the edges and the brilliant summer stars shone down upon them from a widening zone of fathomless sky. Dark high banks loomed up on either side at a distance of several hundred yards. But staring downstream was like looking straight out to open sea.

"Just as I thought," said Stephen. "This is a big shallow torrential tributary of the Arkansas, and it can't be very far away." His eyes pierced the gloom, now rapidly lightening, and suddenly he gave a gasp of dismay.

NEW AND ORIGINAL FASHION DESIGNS

By Mildred Lodewick

ONE has no idea until he tries how color can ruin or make one's entire appearance. The girl who belongs to a very different type seldom has any great trouble in finding becoming colors in her clothes. For instance, the perfect blonde with blue eyes and light hair knows that she will always look well in all shades of blue and in the delicate shades of pink and green. The pronounced brunette with black hair, dark eyes and high coloring usually looks well in reds, brownish yellow and purple—in all the rich glowing shades. But just as there are a hundred different tones to each distinct color, so are there a hundred different shades to every human type. You girls of individual coloring should study the question of color in dress until you have found the tonal scheme which brings out your individuality in the best way. It will take time and many experiments, but the result is worth every bit of it.

The young girl who likes simple but distinctive clothes will be interested in the design I am offering today. It is of black satin, with sleeves of colored chiffon or georgette. Tomato red would be a smart and practical color for them, and the same could be introduced on the frock underneath the tiny straps. These straps may be made of the satin, or they may be of silk braid, and the long slender points which they supply lend dash and distinction to the frock. The tassels which finish them at the bottom add a decorative touch. This model may be made in one piece from neck to hem, or it may be pieced at the waistline, and the blouse of the waist portion may be long enough to make a belt unnecessary, or a mere cord of strands of satin cording may be employed.

For practical wear serge would be smart for interpreting this design with sleeves of satin.

from it. He went a little further then changed his mind and started in another direction. Pretty much he saw an opening ahead. He began to run. When he reached it he saw a blueberry patch, and his heart leaped for joy. But when he sat up for lunch around his heart sank. It was a blueberry patch, but it wasn't the blueberry patch. It was very much smaller. Then Boxer knew that he was lost. He hadn't the least idea where the right blueberry patch was.

He had been lost once before, as perhaps you remember, but that time it was in the familiar Green Pasture home. Now he was far from home in a wholly strange place, and he was afraid that Mother Bear and Wolf-Woof had gone home and left him there. Once more he began to whimper. You see, he wasn't yet over the fright the Yellow Jackets and Buster Bear had given him. So, altogether, he was a badly scared little Bear.

At last Boxer was able to breathe without panting. He felt rested in his legs. The places where he had been stung didn't ache quite so hard. He would go look for Mother Bear and Wolf-Woof. They couldn't be far. He was quite sure of that. So Boxer scrambled to his feet and then—well, the fact is he didn't know which way to go. You see, when he was running from those angry Yellow Jackets he had been too frightened to notice where he was going. He had twisted and dodged this way and that way, trying to keep under the bushes and that had been his only thought. Boxer stood up on his hind legs and looked this way and that way, hoping to see some sign of Mother Bear. He cocked his funny little ears to catch some sound that would tell him where she was. But he saw nothing but trees and bushes. He heard nothing at all.

"Of course, Mother and Wolf-Woof are back there in the berry patch," said he to himself hopefully. "All I have to do is go back there, and that isn't very far. It's right over beyond that tall tree."

He started off bravely, but when he reached the tall tree there was no berry patch to be seen. The truth is he had been going straight away

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Badly Frightened Little Bear

Who runs from trouble and is headless, may suffer that which is quite needless.

When Boxer ran away from the Yellow Jackets in the blueberry patch he had just one thought in his funny little head, and that was to get away as far and as soon as possible from that place where such sharp, fiery pains struck him without warning. At first he didn't understand the cause of all those pains. It wasn't until he saw a Yellow Jacket dart down on one of his paws and then felt the sharp sting just where the Yellow Jacket had touched that he knew the cause of his fright and pain.

So, with only the thought of getting away in his head, he took no notice of where he was going. He simply ran and ran until he could run no longer. His heart sank. It was a blueberry patch, but it wasn't the blueberry patch. It was very much smaller. Then Boxer knew that he was lost. He hadn't the least idea where the right blueberry patch was.

How Do You Quit Your Job?

By Sophie Irene Loeb

THE other day I visited a large concern where many people are employed. I noticed one of the men working with more zeal than the others who applied for a job and inquired as to how much of the work was expected of the average worker.

I pointed out the fact to the employer that that particular person seemed to do more than the others. "Oh, he is a new man," he answered smilingly. "All new brooms sweep clean. He will work like that for a while and then will fall in line and do approximately the same as the others."

"This is one of the big faults in the industrial fields. A worker starts out like a house afire and you think he is going to be one of the best. But he does not keep up the speed."

"He gets into a rut after a while and sometimes even worse than that; we have to discharge him because he does not come up to the mark at all."

"So I always gauge a worker's merit by how he begins his job, but the way he quits it."

There is a great deal of truth in this man's statement. I know a young man who applied for a job and showed such keen anxiety to get it and such real desire to make good and to please that he was given a very good salary to start with.

For a few weeks there was no better worker in the place. But it seemed after a while his interest lagged. He was told he was a good worker and thought that he could get away with anything.

He did not show the same enterprise or the same spirit. He put off things for tomorrow that could have been done today.

He thought he could live on his first few weeks' reputation, and that the people for whom he worked would believe that he was doing the same, but they soon observed that it was not the case.

He shirked his tasks and took more time for meals, and did a number of such seemingly trivial things, but which really showed up big. Everybody about the place could hardly believe that such a change was possible.

Where before he was always asking for more things to do he now sought to avoid as much as possible and to do as little as he could.

This is a common malady. Such people as a rule go so far and no further. They may hold a job for a long time, perhaps a year, but they never get any higher than that particular position.

The reason is obvious. They have failed to advance themselves out of the position. That is to say, that when a man starts work and keeps up the pace which he has made, his ability is soon discerned and he is given more opportunities.

But the trouble is that if their enthusiasm has not been recognized soon enough, they get into the waiting and just do only what they have to do—all of which is deplorable.

The people who have arrived have always gone on the theory that if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing all the time and any time, and whether you stay at a job or quit it, the fellow who thus arrives is he who quits the job as clean as he began it.

So, in the last analysis, it matters not so much how you act at the beginning as how you finish up, for every work finished up well leads to another and better opening.

Many a one goes on the wrong theory that if he quits a job that people are prone to find out all about your previous efforts and judge you accordingly.

If you set a pace, keep it to the very end.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

TODAY, YESTERDAY AND FOREVER.

We're not so modern as we thought;
We learn from old romances
That Bolingbroke's court jester taught
Our very newest dances.
Rough steps did not originate
With any Mamie or Chimmy,
Prince Hal knew how to undulate
And Falstaff did the shimmy.

And even farther back than that—
The people broke all trammels
When old King Cheops was at bat
And teetered like the camels.
Before they built the pyramids
The turtles were the model
On which the smart Egyptian kids Devised a zippy toddle.

The cave-man, ere he learned to talk
Or even hurl a hammer
Could give the Dinosaur Walk
A wild, entrancing glamor.
And Adam, we believe, was hep,
Before his sad disaster,
To every kind and sort of step
That modern foot can master.

In almost every age a King
Has here and there arisen
And tried to stop this sort of thing
By fine or whip or prison.
But neither mandates from the crown
Nor acts of Legislature
Can hold a tripping slipper down;
You can't change human nature!

It looks to us as if the Ku Klux Klan was a conspiracy to boost the sale of cotton goods.

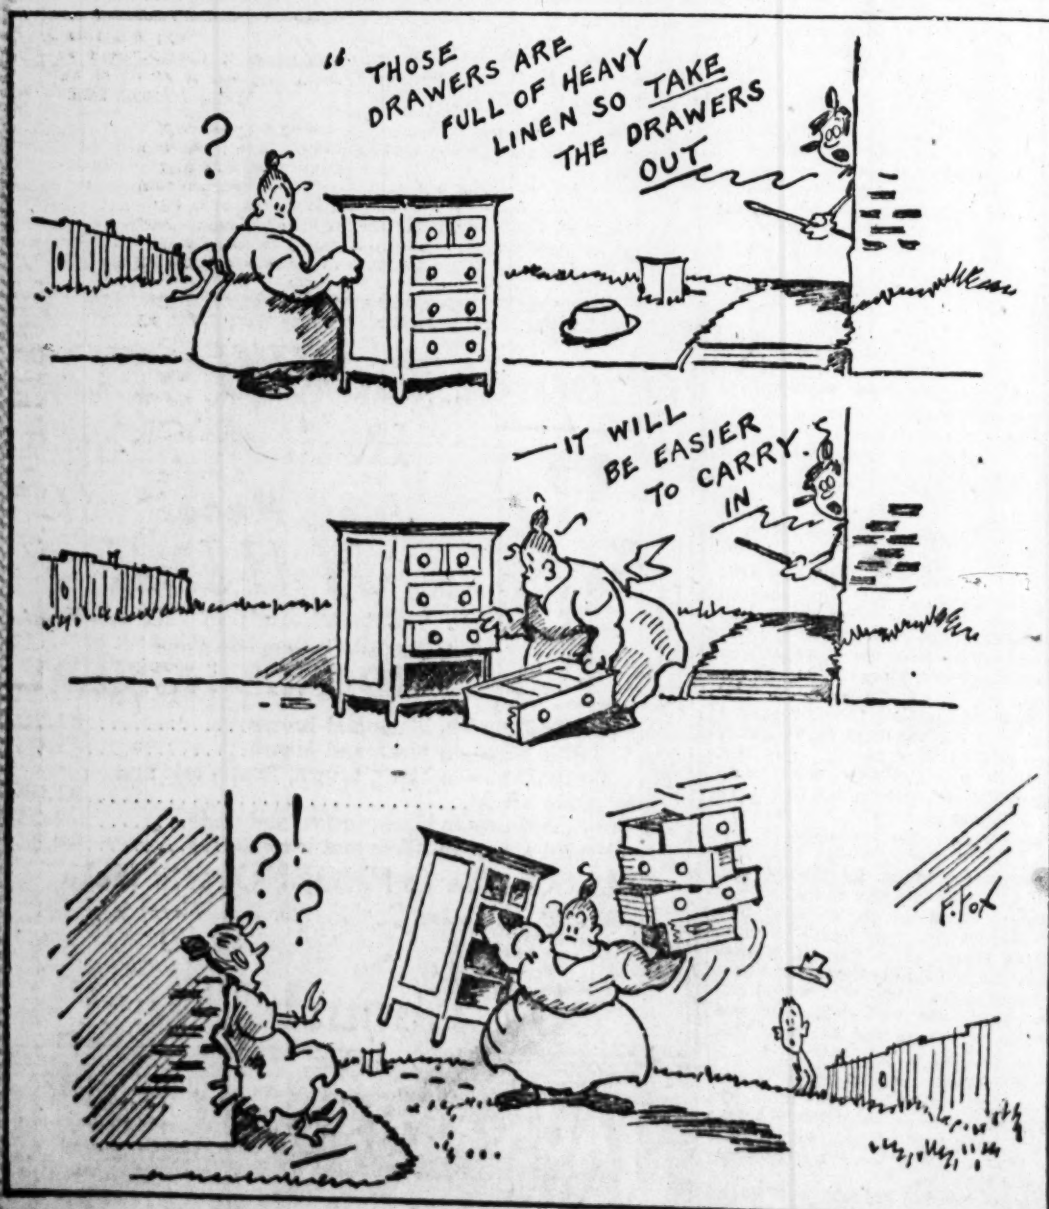

TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

Perhaps Caesar's confidence in fat men would have been shaken if he had lived in film star days.

"Yes," said Farmer Cornstossel.
